NEW JAP MOVE AGAINST CHINA

ARGUMENTS HEARD BY SUPREME COURT IN WALKER'S CASE

COUNSEL FOR NEW YORK MAYOR SEEKS TO ENJOIN GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT

SUPREME COURT, ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Arguments upon which Mayor James J. Walker relies to obtain court intervention and halt his ouster hearing before Governor Roosevelt were laid before Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley today.

Staley adjourned his session until Wednesday, when John J. Curtin, Walker's counsel, will submit briefs of his arguments.

Inclosing his contention that Roosevelt had denied the New York mayor his rights, Curtin said: "When you come to think that the governor feels he is above the law and there is no appeal, you will see that we can only go to the courts for an order to avoid physical conflict that might otherwise ensue."

Mayor Walker was not at the court session.

Upon the youthful shoulders of Henry Epstein, deputy attorney general, fell the task of combatting the Walker move. Epstein is a son-in-law of Max D. Steuer, one of Tammany Hall's chief legal advisers.

Curtin argued against the governor considering acts of the mayor that took place during his first administration.

"The governor has taken unto himself," Curtin said, "the right to investigate a man's private conduct. He seems to consider that while there is a bill of rights, those rights do not apply to a man in public office.

"The governor is going into things that do not involve public trust. Where is the law that permits that?"

"I [illegible]," Justice Staley said as Epstein began his argument, "that your special appearance here is an expression of unwillingness of the governor to submit to the jurisdiction of the court."

"I don't say that," the deputy attorney general replied, "but we will not submit to judicial determination of an executive proceeding now in progress, under a writ of prohibition."

"Suppose I should come to the conclusion," Staley observed, "that the governor is not acting within his jurisdiction but that

STORE MANAGER IS KIDNAPED-ROBBED IN WACO MONDAY

RECEIPTS FROM SEVEN CHAIN STORES TAKEN IN BOLD ESCAPADE TODAY

WACO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—S. F. Moore, manager of the eight Piggly Wiggly stores in Waco, was kidnaped from in front of one of the stores today by a man who robbed him of several thousand dollars.

Moore was taken prisoner while collecting Saturday's receipts. The robber climbed in Moore's car and sticking a pistol aaginst his side, ordered him to drive to a point near Lake Waco.

There the robber made him walk down a ravine and, after ordering him to stay there 20 minutes, tossed the keys to Moore's car into the brush. Moore said he heard another car start up and drive away. After spending 15 or 20 minutes finding the keys to his car, Moore drove back to Waco and notified police.

He was unable to give the exact amount taken but said is represented Saturday receipts from seven stores and probably amounted to several thousand dollars.

The abduction was witnessed by E. R. Sawyer, manager of the store from in front of which Moore was kidnaped.

Cotton Advanced Nearly Dollar on Monday's Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Cotton rose nearly $1 a bale today to new high levels for the [illegible] movement on buying attributed to reports of crop deterioration, and claims of more active demand for cotton goods.

The futures market reached a level equal to 7 3-4 cents a pound for New York spots, the highest quotation since March, 1931. Not many weeks ago spots sold at the five cent level.

The market's ability to attain new high levels was regarded around the cotton ring as impressive because it occurred in the face of a cotton map indicating improved crop weather conditions over the belt.

Some of the buying today was attributed to traders who have rather belatedly come to the conclusion the recent government crop estimate of 11,306,000 bales fairly mirrors the crop prospects. Previously these traders were said to have felt that the official estimate was too low.

LEADING SOUTHWEST EDUCATOR DIED AT ABILENE MONDAY

OSCAR HENRY COOPER AUTHOR OF BILL CREATING TEXAS UNIVERSITY

ABILENE, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Oscar Henry Cooper, 79, one of the outstanding educators of the southwest, former superintendent of public instruction and former president of Baylor University, died at his home here today.

Dr. Cooper is survived by his widow and four children—Oscar Henry Cooper Jr., of New York City, Dr. Stewart Cooper and Hubert N. Cooper of Abilene, and Mrs. Dan Gallagher of Abile

Funeral arrangements were not immediately announced.

Oscar Henry Cooper, "the grand old man of Texas education," author of the bill creating the University of Texas, was generally credited with exercising a dominant influence in Texas educational circles over a half century spent as a teacher. He lived to see his pupils sit with the mighty of the nation and the state.

Destined for law, Dr. Cooper entered the teaching profession as a means of raising money quickly in 1867. At that time he was a student at Yale, the death of his father in that year calling him to Teaxs and interrupting his studies at that institution, to which he returned for his bachelor of arts degree in 1872.

It was shortly after his graduation from Yale that he received a "call" to devote his life to education, which resulted, among other achievements, in the founding of the University of Texas and the

Both of Bagwell's ankles were broken and he was bruised painfully. England suffered critical internal injuries. Both were taken to a Tulia hospital.

Heat Wave Sweeps Continental Europe Britain Gets Relief

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The heat wave that swept the British Isles last week moved on to Continental Europe during the weekend, sending the mercury to over 100 degrees Fahrenheit in many parts of France and Italy.

Berlin dispatches said Sunday, with 98 degrees, was the hottest day in Berlin in 67 years. Twelve persons were drowned there and five in Munich seeking relief from the heat. A heavy wind struck Hamburg, damaging 40 houses

Temperatures in the British Isles and Northern Germany and France dropped about 20 degrees last night and there were indications that relief might be expected in other sections soon.

Contents Stolen Purse Returned Mrs. S. C. Bagby

Asking forgiveness for the act, calling attention to the fact that the depression is on and urging her to vote right next Saturday, the person taking Mrs. S. C. Bagby's purse from her automobile in front of the Beaton Motor Company, Saturday afternoon, returned all the contents through the mail Monday morning. The purse was not returned.

There was no money in the purse—only a check for $1.00 and papers of a personal nature belonging to Mrs. Bagby, who is society editor of the Daily Sun.

The contents of the purse were wrapped in regulation brown wrapping paper and mailed to Mrs. Bagby's street address in Corsicana. The following note, written with pencil on the same type of paper used for the wrapper was in the package:

"8-20-1932—Mrs. S. C. Bagby:. Mrs. Bagby—Cannot destroy your valuables. Remember the depression is on. Am asking you to forgive me for this act. So cast your vote right next Sat. Signed) SELDOM SEEN."

The incident has been reported to the police.

AIR DERBYISTS IN COMPETITION OVER TWO ROUTES TODAY

ONE GROUP FLYING FROM PACIFIC AND OTHER FROM ATLANTIC COASTS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Two fleets of racing airplanes, one from the Atlantic, the other from the Pacific, nearly a hundred in all, today entered the second lap of the Cord Cup transcontinental air derby.

Their spectacular 2,369-mile contest will end at the Cleveland airport Saturday as one of the main events of the national air races.

Forty-eight men and eight women fliers in the Pacific group started their first lap yesterday at Los Angeles and all landed safely within a few hours at Yuma, Ariz., where they spent the night.

The Atlantic group took off from Washington, D. C., and ended their first lap at Winston-Salem, N. C., but with one of their 28 entries, Cecil Coffrin, Brooklyn, N. Y., forced out by engine trouble. He was reported down at Frederisksburg, Va.

Figuring ratings on a point-and-handicap basis, the judges announced Art Carnahan, Bloomington, Ill., as winner of the Los Angeles-Yuma lap; Roy Hunt of Norman, Okla., second, and Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., who won first place in the 1930 womens' air derby and second in 1929, third.

The Atlantic flight was led by Fred Dorset of Augusta, Ga.

Only one of the Western planes was known to have been forced down and its pilot, Al Lary of Los Angeles later brought it to Yuma safely. Lary, taking his fiancee, Yolando Spirito of Pasadena, Cal., with him, landed in the desert 10 miles from Yuma out of gas. He obtained fuel, however, from a

GOVERNORSHIP RACE HOT AS FINAL WEEK OF CAMPAIGN OPENS

RANGERS RECALLED FROM EAST TEXAS FOR FEAR ACTION MISCONSTRUED

By R. W. BARRY

AUSTIN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Texas' democratic gubernatorial run-off campaign, with the race tightly contested between Governor R. S. Sterling, incumbent, and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, ex-governor, had become even more exciting today as it entered its final week.

Because he feared the movement would be mistaken for a political maneuver, Governor R. S. Sterling last night cancelled an order issued by W. W. Sterling, Texas adjutana general, to send Rangers to "clean up" the criminal element in the East Texas oil field.

General Sterling had announced thirty-five rangers would begin their work this morning of ferreting out violators of the criminal laws in co-operation with other law enforcement officials of the area.

Rangers already had passed through Austin en route to the oil field area from the Rio Grande border section and other stations when Governor Sterling instructed the adjutant general to recall them.

The governor explained his action with a statement that he preferred not to send rangers to East Texas at this time for fear his action would be misunderstood as an attempt to guard the ballot boxes in the run-off primary next Saturday.

The adjutant general said that some hesitancy was felt at first in ordering rangers to the oil field on account of nearness of the primary election but that finally it was decided the situation demanded immediate action to free that section of "Oklahoma

LEADING AMERICAN ACTOR SUCCUMBED TO AILMENT OF HEART

LACKAYE WAS FORCED ON AND OFF AMERICAN STAGE FOR FORTY YEARS

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Wilton Lackaye, a towering personality who for nearly 40 years made his force felt on and off the American stage, succumbed to a heart ailment early today after illness had kept him in "involuntary retirement" for most of five years. He was in his seventieth year.

The list of his roles occupies several columns in "Who's Who in the Theatre" but it was his Svengali role in Trilby, from Du Maurier's famous novel of the Paris studios, that was the cornerstone of his national distinction. He was a romantic actor and he survived as a link between what old-timers call the "palmy days" and the present.

Born in Loudon county, Virginia, he studied for the priesthood and then for the law be-

NEW JERSEY HAS WEEK-END MURDER SPREE; FIVE DIE

SHOOTING YOUNG WOMAN IN VACANT LOT IS MOST MYSTERIOUS CRIME

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 22.—(AP)—A week-end wave of murder by ice picks and bullets left five men dead in New Jersey today but police found the unaccountable shooting of a 25-year-old girl, daughter of a prominent family, the most mysterious.

Miss Evelyn Higgins, whose father is Maj. William Higgins of the staff of Gov. A. Harry Moore, was seriously wounded early yesterday as she crossed a vacant lot in Jersey City after an auto ride. No weapon was found, Miss Higgins was in too serious a condition to be questioned and there was no indication as to whether it was an attempted murder or a strange accident.

Andrew Fadrizino, 26, and Vincent Boccio, whom the police call Brooklyn racketeers, were victims of an unusual execution instrument—the ice pick. Their slayers stabbed them countless times, wrapped them in burlap bags and left them in a backyard at Harrison. The gruesome bundles were found yesterday.

Police who suspect the existence of a far-flung murder syndicate pointed out that it was in similar fashion that John Babbano of Pittsburgh met his death in New York recently. His end came not long after the three Volpe brothers, gangsters, had been mowed down in Bazzano's Pittsburgh cafe.

Police suspected that the two found dead yesterday may have been abducted on their way to a party which detectives said was to have been given last week in New York in celebration of the passing of the Pittsburgh man.

Another killing yesterday was

STATE BONUSES WOULD BE PAID TO PARENTS HAVING CHILDREN GOOD HEREDITY

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(AP)—State paid bonuses for having children of good heredity were advocated at the third international congress of eugenics which opened today.

Failure of contraceptives to limit birth of inferior children was asserted. Protection against immigrant genes even more dangerous to a nation than disease germs was suggested through laws permitting deportation of first generation children of newcomers in any country.

"Equivalence" of women instead of "equality" with men, clothing better suited to motherhood, a tendency in Europe for higher classes to have more children and sterilization of the unfit were mentioned.

The keynote of what the geneticists are fighting was struck in a statement by Theodore Russell Robie, M. D, that the "greatest single cause of mental deficiency (50 to 65 per cent) is poor heredity."

State payment of $50 monthly to parents of good heredity when their third child reaches its fifth birthday and $10 or more for each child in addition was advocated by Dr. Rentato Kehl of Dio De Janeiro. Deaths of children would end payment. He favored also high inheritance taxes for families with fed children, with reductions for large families.

Income tax rebates to cover substantial portions of a child's education were suggested by Dr. J. Sanders o Rotterdam.

These state allowances, however desirable, would almost certainly be too small to encourage the really gifted to have more children, said Sir Bernard Mallet of London. Spread of Eugenic knowledge he held as the "real hope."

"The serious fall in the birth rate, due undoubtedly to the spread of the knowledge of contraceptive devices," he said, is perhaps the most momentuous social and biological phenomenon of our time; and it is imposible to contemplate without alarm the effect of its probable development on the future of the race.

"Whatever objection may be felt to birth control on religious and social grounds, it cannot but be deplored that, from the nature of the case, the classes in which the use of contraceptive methods would be eminently desirable (the mentally unfit) are incapable of applying any means yet devised.

The insidious human genes shown by immigration were described by Dr. D. F. Ramos of Havana. Genes are living particles, controlling heredity. They are so much smaller than germs that scientists estimate a single teaspoonful of genes might contail all the human differences in heredity man has ever known.

Some genes are dominant; others recessive. These latter constitute the peril, containing both talents and taints, which sometimes show not the slightest trace of immigrants but crop 'out' in their children. Bad recessives, Dr. Ramos said, can carry "almost fatal consequences," hence the need for deportation of immigrant offspring.

Feeble-Minded Costly.

CRITICISM BARRAGE BY POLITICAL FOES FALL ON ROOSEVELT

PROMINENT REPUBLICANS JOINED BY SOCIALIST LEADER IN DENUNCIATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A barrage of criticism for political foes descended today upon Franklin D. Roosevelt today for utterances in his campaign address of last Saturday at Columbus.

Prominent republican spokesmen were joined by Norman Thomas, the socialist presidential candidate, in pressing upon Roosevelt inquiries as to why, as governor of New York, he had not already instituted the reforms in stock exchange and bank regulation which he espoused at Columbus.

In addition, the state department accused him of insinuating the department has "assisted the bankers in the past" by passing on or approving foreign loans. It again denied this activity and said "it would be interesting to know whether Mr. Roosevelt intends to revive this long since discredited story."

Roosevelt's speech had promised that if he were elected it would no longer be possible for international bankers to sell foreign securities in this country "on the implied understanding" that

ANTI-PROHIBITION WILL AID CAMPAIGN OF MRS. FERGUSON

OTHER CANDIDATES NAMED TO 'OPPOSE' CHOICES OF DRY ORGANIZATIONS

HOUSTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Jno. H. Kirby, chairman of the Texas Federation of Anti-Prohibition clubs issued a statement today urging the membership to vote for Mrs. Miriam A. Feruguson for the democratic gubernatorial nomination in next Saturday's runoff election.

The statement also urged that George B. Terrell be favored for congress at large, Place No. 1; Joseph Weldon Bailey, Jr., for place No. 2, and Joe Burkett for place No. 3.

The federation, the statement went on, "consistently refrained from taking any part in the governor's race," but added:

"Now comes a committee of preachers and high officials of some of the protestant churches of Texas and in a political document released from Dallas on August 5 issues a warning that prohibition is threatened and can best be perpetuated by the nomination and the election of the following slate of prohibition candidates: Ross S. Sterling, for governor; Pink Parrish for Congress at large, place 1; Cyclone Davis for congress at large, place No. 2; Sterling P. Strong for congress at large, place 3.

"We cannot further ignore the challenge laid down by these 'pulpit politicians' and we urge our members to accept the only alternative and support the following candidates who recognize constituted party authority and who are pledged to support and will support, the platform and nominees of the national democratic party at Chicago: Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for governor; George B. Terrell for congress at large place No. 1; Joseph W. Bailey, Jr., for congress at large, place 2, Joe Burkett for Congress at large, place 3."

MOLLISON EXPECTS TO START BACK TO ENGLAND SHORTLY

FIRST SOLO FLIER FROM EAST TO WEST EXPECTS NO RETURN TROUBLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Sandy-haired Capt. James A. Mollison, the only person ever to fly alone from Europe to New York, cocked an anxious eye at the sky over Manhattan's towers today and hoped the weather man would let him start his hop home to England in two or three days.

"I've just been married, you know," he explained with a grin.

When he finished his precedent-shattering jaunt from Europe at 3:33 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday, Mollison, who is the husband of Amy Johnson, England's most famous woman flier said:

"Amy and I have made a pact to make no more eqtremely long or hazardous trips, once this flight is concluded."

Mollison was in the air 36 hours and one minute between Port Marnock, Ireland, and New York which showed in his face when he brought his tiny plane, "Hearts Content" down before 2,000 cheering fans yesterday at Roosevelt Field. He had made the leg from St. John, N. B, in five hours, 12 minutes.

In two or three days, given good weather, we will take off, he said for Harbor Grace, where he will refuel and head for Croydon, England.

"You cant' miss it on the Eastern trip," he said nonchalantly. "The weather and winds are more favorable all the way".

His little chaft, first plane of its lightness ever to cros the Atlantic, had to be rested from a crowd of souvenir hunters after he landed. Although weary, Mollison received congratulations with engaging modesty.

THREE MORE MEN RELEASED ON BOND IN ARSON CASES

FORMAL COMPLAINTS HAVE BEEN FILED AGAINST EIGHT PERSONS

Examining trials for G. P. Wilson, J. D. Walker and Dudley Cameron, charged by complaint with arson in connection with the burning of the Grand Theatre, July 17, with a loss of approximately $10,000, were waived before Judge Sam B. Jordan, justice of the peace, Monday morning at 10 o'clock and the trio were bound over to await the action of the Navarro county grand jury on bonds in the sum of $1,500 each. They were released from the county jail Saturday night on bonds to appear before Judge Jordan Monday.

Formal complaints were filed against eight persons for arson Saturday in connection with the burning of the theatre. M. C. Levy was released on bond of $1,500 following his examining trial Saturday. He is reported to have made statements of the affair to Cleo G. Miller, criminal district attorney, and W. S. Knight, police chief, and other police officials. Levy testified in his examining trial that he had hired two boys to set the theatre afire.

Seek Two Others.

Clay Hightower and Jack Patterson, two boys implicated as the couple who fired the building, were still in jail Monday morning. Officers are seeking two others against whom complaints have been filed.

City officers reported that they had been working on the case since the fire occurred on July 17, but had made little headway until

JEHOL PROVINCE LATEST OBJECTIVE OF NIPPON DRIVE

CLAIMED IN OFFICIAL QUARTERS PROVINCE BE MADE PART OF NEW STATE

TOKYO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A statement attributed to official quarters today said it was only a question of time before strong action would be taken to make Jehol province unquestionably a part of the newly created independent state of Manchukuo.

This assertion came a few hours behind dispatches from Japanese correspondents at Chinchow, Manrhuria, stating that a Japanese detachment stationed near Peipiaon, Jehol, had routed several hundred Chinese regulars after a sharp battle.

The war office, however, denied that the Japanese army had assumed the offensive in Jehol or contemplated at present a large scale invasion of that province that heretofore had divided China proper from Manchuria.

The clash described in the Chinchow dispatches was called a minor local affair but a spokesman for the foreign office intimated that favorable autumn weather probably will see a determined Japanese military action in Jehol.

The purpose of such a movement would be to end an unsatisfactory situation arising out of the capture by Jehol "bandits" of Gonshiro Ishimoto, a former Japanese army officer. The Japanese also consider the allegiance of Chairman (Governor) Tan, Yu-Lin of Jehol to Manchukuo as "doubtful."

The Chinchow correspondents said the Japanese suffered two casualties and the Chinese took heavy losses in the engagement which came about after the Chinese had tried to blow up a railway bridge.

The war office said the Japanese detachment pursued the Chinese to Nanling, five miles northwest of Chaoling Temple railway station in Eastern Jehol. Later they returned to Chaoling and were the only Japanese troops in Jehol.

The diet convened meanwhile for its third extraordinary session of the year. It will get down to the main business at hand on Thursday with government statements from Premier Saito, Foreign Minister Yasyua Uchida and Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR ELECTION BE HELD SATURDAY

DAILY SUN WILL TABULATE RETURNS AND ANNOUNCE THE RESULTS

"The list of absentee ballots cast at the county clerk's office will be carefully checked and if any are found not legal they will be challenged," it was announced Monday at the headquarters of the Navarro county democratic executive committee. Election officials and democratic leaders are making plans for the holding of the second primary election Saturday, Aug. 27, and candidates and their supporters in the run-off races are putting forth every effort to corral the votes during the final week of campaigning.

Interest is high in the gubernatorial race between R. S. Sterling, present governor, and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, former governor. These two candidates were in the run-off primary two years ago. Many political observers predict the race in the gubernatorial campaign in Navarro county will be close with each side confident of victory.

District Judge's Race

Local interest is also high in the district judge's race between Hawkins Scarborough, present incumbent, and Warren Hicks. These two men were in the run-off race four years ago.

L. C. Morgan, county clerk, stated Monday there had been apprroximately 175 absentee ballots cast. Absentee voting will close Tuesday.

Murray Issues Drastic Orders For Oil Fields

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A threat to order the arrest of anybody interfering with military occupation of the Oklahoma City oil field was made today by Gov. W. H. Murray as he directed Lieut. Col. Cicero I. Murray, his field officer, to disobey a district court subpoena in a suit attacking proration methods now in force.

China. He probably will reply to the speech in New York Aug. 8 of the American secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson.

Although formal ceremonies of the diet opening in the presence of the emperor will not come until tomorrow, the legislators today voted 176,000,000 yen ($42,240,000) for projects to relieve distress among peasants, fishermen and small merchants.

Today's appropriations made the total for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1933, 1,956,000,000 yen ($469,440,000) the largest in Japan's history. Nearly 800,000,000 yen of this amount must be raised by government loans. The two previous sessions of the diet this year voted funds for the Manchurian and Shanghai campaigns.

Jap Troops Enter Jehol

Japanese troops entered Jehol province a month ago after Ishimoto, a Japanese representative, was kidnaped allegedly by Jehol bandits. They described the entry as purely to obtain his release and not a military invasion.

The Japanese charged, however, that allies of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, deosed Manchurian war lord now in Peiping, had been responsible for Ishimoto's capture.

Jehol province has not been officially allocated in the new order of things in Manchuria. Formerly it was a part of Chihli province, China, dominated by Peiping. Later maps show it neither as a part of China nor Manchuria.

The new Japanese maps of the recently created Manchukuo, the independent nation sponsored by Japan, show Jehol as a part of Manchukuo. None of the territory has been recognized by foreign governments as independent, hence, officially remains a part of China.

Chinese Claim Japs Launch Jehol Thrust

SHANGHAI, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Chinese dispatches from Peiping and other North China points today said the Japanese forces in Manchuria had launched a strong military thrust into Jehol, the province that borders on China proper.

The dispatches said fighting was going on along a "broad portion" of the Jehol eastern border, with Chinese falling back before Japanese artillery, airplanes and machine guns.

Japanese bombing planes were reported as spreading terror among the border populace, which was streaming into the open country seeking safety.

Foreign dispatches from North China were more conservative and told of sporadic fighting along the Jehol eastern border. It was not clear whether the Japanese were launching a campaign to occupy Jehol or whether they were merely trying to free Gonshiro Ishimoto, a kidnaped former Japanese army officer.

One of the Peiping dispatches today said General Tank Yu-Ling, chairman (governor) of Jehol province, had asked for military reinforcements, adding that he would "resist to the last man."

Meanwhile, China's political crisis wash believed nearing a solution with the decision of Wang Ching-Wei to resume his office as president of the executive council. It was Wang's resignation that brought on retirement of the Nanking cabinet August 9.

PEIPING, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Foreign military observers here were inclined to regard with skepticism Chinese reports that Japanese troops nad invaded Jehol during the week-end.

The clash between Chinese and Japanese forces last Friday, when a Japenese armored train occupied the railway station at Nanling, they regarded as an isolated incident rather than as the beginning of a definite campaign by the Japanese to occupy Jehol province.

The belief as expressed that similar clashes may be expected from time to time but that major hostilities are not likely at least until the middle of next month, when the corps which furnish first class cover for troops are reaped.

NANKING, China, Aog. 22.—(AP)—Despite official Japanese statements that Friday's fighting Jehol province was "an isolated incident caused when Chinese troops fired on Japanese soldiers." Chinese officials here said today they were convinced that a Japanese invasion of Jehol is inevitable.

Japan's intentions along the Jehol border have not yet been revealed, these officials said, "but there is likely to be a wholesale invasion with the object of making Jehol a part of Manchukuo. If it doesn't come now it is sure to come in the future, for the Japanese already have declared that they intend taking action in Jehol."

They declared that the latest incident emphasizes Japan's aggressive attitude and disregard of her League of Nations obligations."

and Chicago gunmen and criminals" who he claimed, had been "flocking to the oil field."

Oil Field Is Issue.

Administration of conservation measures in the oil field has been an issue in the campaign. Governor Sterling placed the area under martial law a year ago and shut down all wells until proration of production could be accomplished in an orderly way at the time the field was operating without state supervision. Attempts to bring it under state control having been ignored by operators. The Texas legislature was convened in special session to pass laws strengthening authority of the Texas Railroad Commission, administrator of statutes designed to conserve natural resources, with reference to controlling the flow of oil.

The field still is under military rule, although personne of the Texas National Guard sent into the area had been gradually reduced until only a few now remain. The railroad commission for several months has been administering the cnoservation statutes in co-operation with the military.

The governor's motives in placing the field under the military had been challenged by some. It was alleged he acted on behalf of major oil companies. In his campaign which he prosecuted through the East Texas field last week, he has denied that he befriended the big companies but asserted he acted to preserve interests of the small independent operators.

No Major Company Petitions.

He claimed that he had not been petitioned by a single major oil operator in the field to shut it in through his military powers. On the other hand, he has told his audiences that the independent operators petitioned him solidly to resort to stringent measures to conserve the oil and protect their interests.

The governor has posted a reward of [illegible]500 for evidence leading to arrest and conviction of any primary official violating the election laws at the August 27 runoff primary by accepting illegal votes and $100 for conviction of any ineligible voter who knowingly breaks an election law by marking and causing to be counted a ballot.

Mrs. Ferguson, aided by her former governor husband, James E. Ferguson, planned to finish up the campaign with speeches Tuesday night in Dallas, Wednesday night in Athens, Thursday night in Denton and Friday night in Greneville.

Governor Sterling was booked to address a rally in Houston, his home town, Monday night. His itinerary for the balance of the week, up to primary day, had not been announced.

MEXIA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Captain Albert Mace headed a detachment of 25 Texas rangers which lunched in Mexia yesterday. Although it was understood they were en route to the East Texas oil field. Captain Mace declined to reveal his mission. He said he was moving under secret orders.

Adjutant General W. W. Sterling had ordered rangers to the oil field to "clean up" gangsters which were reported to have drifted into East Texas from the north. Last night Governor R. S. Sterling countermanded the order, saying he feared if the drive was conducted at this time it might be mistaken for a political maneuver.

The crowd was estimated at several thousand.

fore turning to the stage. His first wife, the former Alice Evans, died in 1919 and, in 1928, when he was 65, he secretly married Miss Kathryn Alberta Riley, who had nursed him through an illness. She survives, with his son, Wilton Lackaye, Jr., also an actor.

Lackaye was famous for occasional truculence. Broadway still talks about a difference of opinion between him and John J. McGraw, former leader of the New York Giants, during which Lackaye was thrown downstairs and suffered a fracture of the ankle. McGraw, denying that he did the throwing, was suspended from the Lambs Club for a while.

Lackaye was a founder of the Catholic Actors Guild and was instrumental in organizing the Actors Equity Association, afterward conducting a famous losing battle with John Emmerson for leadership in that society. Of late years he threw himself into a movement to cleanse the stage.

"Salacious plays," he would say, "are produced because there is a salacious public."

From the moment Lackaye brought his grace, his tall, handsome figure and his natural ability to the stage, his success was assured. Two seasons ago he made his last appearance here in "The Money Talks."

His Virginian birth was one of his greatest prides. Once in Norfolk an interviewer asked him why he didn't tell the audience in his curtain speech that he was a Virginia boy.

"Well," said Lackaye, "everybody north knows it but I never say anything down here about it. Pride of birth in Virginia is too sacred a thing to be used for advertising purposes."

Among the numerous educational posts held by Dr. Cooper were, state superintendent of public instruction; president, Baylor University; president, Simmons College, now Simmons University; headmaster, Cooper School for Boys, and superintendent of schools at Houston, Galveston and Carthage.

He was the author and co-author of numerous books. He fostered a wide-spread movement a number of years ago seeking the elimination from school histories of biased accounts of national and internatinal events. At time of his death, Dr. Cooper had a biography under preparation.

Born in the early fifties in Panola county, Dr. Cooper married Miss Mary Bryan Stewart of Marshall in 1886. They had four children, Oscar H. Jr., Yale, New York City; Jackson S., M. SERIES OF TRADE TREATIES BETWEEN ENGLAND AND HER DOMINIONS ARE CONSUMMATED

OTTAWA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A series of 12 trade treaties designed to promote the economic welfare of the British empire and to demonstrate the unity of its dominions was revealed in part to the world today as the delegates to the imperial conference scattered to the four winds.

The United Kingdom signed seven agreements. These were with Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Newfoundland and Southern Rhodesia. The Irish Free State signed two pacts, one with Canada and another with South Africa.

Many of the trade channels between the United States and various British dominions and the United Kingdom will be affected by the treaties, which all carry certain correlated preferences.

Just how far British preference will cut into American or world trade cannot be determined by the various summaries. Further, actual practice must determine the final slice the empire has cut for herself out of world trade.

But many products the United States has heretofore furnished to the British empire units in large quantities are prominently mentioned for empire preference. These include wheat, dairy products, automobiles, copper, fruits, meats of various kinds, corn, typewriters, radios and cotton canufactures.

For instance, the United Kingdom undertook to impose a duty of two shillings per quarter on foreign wheat in her treaty with Canada. A quarter is eight heaped bushels or 504 pounds. Other products now on the British free list were put under a tariff barrier so Canada's products could enjoy free entry.

These included butter, apples and pears, dried fruits, eggs, condensed milk and copper. The duties varied. Raw apples and pears drew 4 shillings, 6 pence duty per hundredweight, and copper two pence per pound. Canadian cattle restrictions would be modified.

In return Canada granted now or increased margins of preference for United Kingdom products to the tune of 220 items, with many more British products placed on the free list. The unofficial understanding for increased use of British steel reached between Canadian and British interests before the conference began are reflected in the steel schedule adjustments.

The Canadian-British agreement also carried a clause designed to prevent Russian "dumping" in the British and Canadian markets, a point on which Canada has often complained. This will affect principally wheat and lumber.

Australian wheat, dairy products, and oranges and grapefruit won British preference, in return for tariff concessions. Southern Rhodesia got her corn protected in the British market with a 10 per cent levy.

Canada and South Africa struck a trade on Indian corn and automobiles, Canada giving preference to South Africa's corn and South Africa protecting Canadian automobiles.

The Irish Free State opened her doors to Canadian wheat in return for the same consideration Canada gives United Kingdom products.

India and the United Kingdom got together on cotton manufactures, the United Kingdom granting a 10 per cent preference for India's products. Indian in turn gave a seven and one-half per cent preference on other products.

All the agreements are subject to ratification by the various parliamentary bodies of the empire units. It was announced that the texts of the treaties will be made public later.

Arson Cases

information was received late last week which resulted in the arrest of the two youths who are alleged to have actually fired the theatre building. After these were arrested and made statements, the other four implicated were arrested by city officers, and transferred to the county authorities Saturday afternoon.

Chief of Detectives Bruce Nutt was in active charge of the rounding up of the case under the supervision of Chief of Police Will S. Knight. Nutt conducted the investigation that resulted in five of the six arrested making statements to city officers concerning the case.

Three of the men implicated were arrested Friday night and are reported to have made statements that resulted in the arrest of three others Saturday morning.

C. J. Musselman and W. E. Woods, owner and manager of the Grand were in Corsicana Sunday making final arrangements for the re-opening of the burned showhouse as soon as the repairs can be completed, probably within the next two weeks.

Theatre managers in several cities indicated over the week end that they believed that the culmination of the Corsicana case would practically end theatre troubles in all parts of the state.

City police officials pointed out that the present case was the second arson case successfully carried to a conclusion by city officers within the past several months. The first arson reward in about 25 years was paid by the city of Corsicana in connection with the first case several months ago.

BANK BOARD MEETS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Directors of the federal home loan bank board, reassembled after individual investigations, hoped today the eight to twelve districts for the new system's banking institutions would be chosen before the week was out. OAKWOOD CEMETERY BEING CLEANED OF WEEDS AND GRASS

A force of about twenty men began the task Monday morning of cleaning the grass and weeds out of Oakwood cemetery, City Commissioner Joe W. Jefferson announced during the afternoon, and the force will be continued until the work has been completed.

A number of the lots were cleaned last week by the owners, and the remainder are being cleaned by the combined efforts of the city, cemetery association and others.

The entire force of the park department has been transferred to the cemetery for the clean-up, and was augmented by several city prisoners who are working out fines. Employment is also being given about ten men in addition to the city forces.

Work was started in the southwest portion of the grounds and rapid progress was being made Monday afternoon. The commissioner said that he expected the work to be completed this week, adding that the work was being done at the least possible cost to the city.

Fate of Famous Underslung Pipe Seems Be Mystery

HARMON, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The reason seems a bit obscure—but a famous underslung pipe has gone into the discard, temporarily at least.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes boarded a train for Chicago here yesterday after visiting friends and was smoking a new curved-stem briar. He wouldn't throw any light on the fate of the underslung one.

"This one draws pretty good," was all he said.

Young Woman Is Killed In Auto Collision Today

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Miss Elsie Ammann of New Orleans, La., was instantly killed and two other persons critically hurt in a head-on automobile collision 14 miles east of here today.

Mrs. J. M. Henley of Selma, La., was in a grave condition and attending physicians held little hope for her recovery.

A. D. Root of Roosevelt, Okla., was suffering from bruises, lacerations, severe shock and possible internal injuries.

The two women were returning from the Olympic games. The two cars met head-on on top of a hill. Miss Ammann was the cousin of J. O. Ammann of Wichita Falls. The two injured persons were placed in local hospitals.

a writ of prohibition [illegible] not apply."

"What have you to say about unsworn, ex-parte testimony taken before the governor as a basis for removal?" Justice Staley queried.

"The question is whether the governor is conducting this hearing in a legal and reasonable manner," responded Epstein. "The hearing is based on sworn testimony received in public."

"Without the production of the witnesses," Justice Staley added.

Epstein said he touched upon that angle "because your honor asks me to, not because [illegible] germane to the question [illegible] writ."

Epstein moved to strike out the section of Curtin's writ calling for a discontinuance of the Roosevelt hearing until a court decision can be had. Curtin said he had no intention of invoking that section of the order granted by the Kingston supreme court justice last week.

Staley advised Epstein to refer his request to the Kingston court.

Curtin intended to ask Mr. Roosevelt to postpone the hearing today and tomorrow until after he submits his briefs to the supreme court.

"It is the unqualified position of the governor of the state of New York," said a brief through the attorney general's office shortly after Gov. Roosevelt returned from his campaign trip to Columbus, "that the court has no jurisdiction over the person of the governor in the exercise of his official duties. x x x if he perversely or corruptly do an intentional wrong, the constitution has provided the only remedy, which is impeachment."

Tax Payers Demand Relief

The tax payers of Navarro county must have permanent relief. The oppression can never be overcome until the farmers have a purchasing power. They can never have a purchasing power until permanently relieved of the present tax burden. Temporary relief will not relieve this situation.

STERLING offers permanent, constitutional relief. He proposes by constitutional amendment to forever relieve counties and Road Districts of all bonded indebtedness where funds were used in building State Highways. He has already relieved the small home owner by constitutional amendment, needing only your vote to make it effective.

FERGUSON offers only temporary relief, and most of this relief will go to the large tax payers. Ferguson only proposes, and that temporary, to take your road money and use it in the reduction of State ad valorem taxes of those with homes assessed in excess of $3000.00.

STERLING		FERGUSON
1-4 to Schools	$ 7,500,000	1-3 to Schools	$10,000,000
1-4 to retirement county and road district bonds	$ 7,500,000	1-3 to State General Fund	$10,000,000
1-2 to be retained for Highway department	$15,000,000	1-3 to be retained for Highway department	$10,000,000

Effect of Sterling Proposal in Navarro County.

Schools will receive same as heretofore.

The setting aside of 1-4 of Gas Tax for retiring County and District Road Bonds to the extent of the amounts counties and road districts have paid on State Highways would relieve Navarro County Road District No. 1 of about 90c on each $100.00 assessed valuation in taxes. Road District No. 12, 30c on $100.00; Road District No. 14, $1.40 on $100.00.

Amount left in Highway fund from gas tax $15,000,000
Plus truck and auto license fee .. $ 4,000,000
Total $19,000,000
Less estimated Highway maintenance $10,000,000
Leaving balance .... $ 9,000,000

Sufficient to match federal aid and should provide from $15,000,000 to $18,000,000 for highway construction.

Total immediate tax relief in Navarro county Road Districts annually $158,205.

Effect of Ferguson Proposal In Navarro County

Increase available money for schools, but if schools are economically operated it is not needed.

Of this General Fund Tax, 27 cents on the $100.00 assessed valuation is maximum which could be relieved and this will go to larger property owners principally, if the $3,000.00 homestead exemption law passes, as every one seems to concede; because that will take care of the small property owners anyway.

Amount left in Highway Fund from gas tax $10,000,000
Plus truck and auto license fee .. $ 4,000,000
Total $14,000,000
Estimated Highway Maintenance $10,000,000
Leaving balance .... $ 4,000,000

to match Federal aid which if secured on 50-50 basis would only give us for road construction $8,000,000

Total maximum tax relief for Road District based on an assessed value of twenty-nine million dollars will be $78,300.

The present road rate in District No. 1 is $1.00 per one hundred dollar valuation. This rate can be cut to ten cents per one hundred dollar valuation, thereby reducing your taxes 90 cents on each One Hundred Dollar value. For example—If your total rendition is $2000, your saving in taxes would be $18.00 per year and with these bonds running for 25 years, the saving would amount to $450.00 before the bonds are retired.

WHICH SHALL YOU VOTE FOR? ROSS STERLING and PERMANENT RELIEF forevermore of all funds spent in the construction of State Highways, or JIM FERGUSON and TEMPORARY RELIEF, and that only to the large home owners?

SAYS REPUBLICANS NOT HONEST WITH PEOPLE IN CRISIS

DEMO NOMINEE PLEADS FOR AVERAGE MAN FORGOTTEN BY PARTY IN POWER

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 20. [illegible]—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, opening his road campaign for the presidency, today proposed that sellers of legitimate securities be required to reveal bonuses and commissions, urged that every effort be made to prevent issues of unnecessary securities, and favored more stringent banking laws for the "great Mass of average American men and women, who, I am not ashamed to repeat, have been forgotten by those in power."

The candidate, in a speech at the state Democratic convention, said the Hoover administration "encouraged a vast speculative boom and, when the reckoning came, it was not honest with the people."

"I sum up the history of the last administration in four sentences," Governor Rosevelt said:

"It encouraged speculation and over-production through its false economic theory.

It attempted to minimize the crash and misled the people as to its gravity.

"It erroneously charged the cause to other nations of the world.

"It refused to recognize an correct evils at home which had brought it forth, delayed relief and forgot to reform."

"Remedies," Mr. Roosevelt codified in a speech at the state Democratic convention, were:

Prevention of the issuance of "manufactured and unnecessary securities which are brought out merely for the purpose of enriching those who handle their sale to the public," and the further provision "with respect to legitimate securities, the sellers shall tell the uses to which the money is put."

Federal regulation of holding companies which sell securities in interstate commerce.

Governmental Regulation.

Governmental regulation of "exchanges in the business of selling and buying securities and commodities that "can by the expedient of moving elsewhere avoid regulation in any given state."

More rigid supervision of national banks "for the protection of depositors."

A proposal to discourage and prevent "the use of bank deposits in speculation to the detriment of local credit" which was "encouraged by the government itself."

Separation of investment and commerical banking.

Restriction of federal reserve banks, "in accordance with the original plans and earlier practices."

Mr. Roosevelt promised "it will [illegible] longer be possible for international bankers, or others, to sell foreign securities on the implied understanding that these securities has been passed on or approved by the state department or any other agency of the federal government."

Will Withhold Influence.

And, that "high public officials in the next administration will neither by word or by deed seek to influence the prices of stocks and bonds."

The present administration, he added, "has all too often issued statements which have had no relation to the scientific information which it possessed. This has shaken public confidence."

Continuing, Mr. Roosevelt told his audience that "this assurance which I am here giving you is to my mind more important than all other remedies."

"Restored confidence in the actions and statements of executive authority is indispensible. This administration has risked the lives and property and welfare of the people through a policy of disastrous governmental speculation."

"It is no wonder," he said, there is stagnation borne of fear. This is a distrust not of ourselves. Not of fundamental soundness. Not in our innate ability to work out our future. It is a distrust of or leaders—in the things they say and the things they do.

Confidence Needed.

"The kind of confidence we most need is confidence in the integrity, the soundness, the liberalism, the vision and the old fashioned horse sense of our naitonal leadership. Without that kind of confidence we are forever insecure. With it the future is ours to conduct."

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that his economic remedial measures "like my whole theory of the conduct of government, are based on telling the truth."

"Government," he said, "cannot prevent some individuals from making errors of judgment but government can prevent to a very great degree the fooling of sensible people through misstatements and through the withholding of information on the part of private organizations great and small which seek to sell investments to the people.

Regrets Criticism Necessary.

The New York governor regretted that he had to criticize republican leadership and policies, "but," he said, "to build we must first clear the ground.

"We must find out why the present republican leadership built so unwisely."

Both platforms and speeches of acceptance of both candidates at least have agreed that the major issue in this campaign is the economic situation, he said.

"I propose to show that the republican leadership," he asserted, "misunderstood the forces which were involved in the economic life of the country, that it encouraged a vast speculative boom and that when the reckoning came the administration was not frank and honest—with the people and, by blundering statements and actions, postponed necessary readjustments. This prolonged and deepened the depression."

Roosevelt asserted the Hoover policy is a wide departure from the republican tradition as voiced by President Harding's slogan of less government in business.

Is Dangerous

"Republicans everywhere should see this," he went on. "It is completely alien to the traditions of the party. The coincidence of the two policies is as dangerous a mixture as fire and powder. This is the tragic folly of the past four years."

Before the election of Mr. Hoover, his rival for White House residency, he said "a terrible race began between the rising tide of bubble fortune in the stock market and the rising tide of unemployment."

"Nevertheless we were, said Mr. Hoover, on the verge of the 'greatest commercial expension in history.' High wages would create new consuming power, accelerated mass production would lower costs. Buy more! Owe more! Spend more! this was the program.

"It was the hey-day of promoters, sloganeers, mushroom millionaires, opportunists, adventurers of all kinds."

Refers to Coolidge.

In this mad whirl, Mr. Roosevelt said Mr. Hoover's campaign was launched. "Perhaps," he added, referring to President Coolidge, "forseeing it, a shrewd man from New England while in the cool detachment of the Dakota hills, typed a narrow slip of paper 'I do not choose to run'."

He went on to recite that surpluses were to be marketed abroad and buying nations were to be financed by loans from the United States. The democratic nominee said Mr. Hoover dismissed the economic objection to higher tariffs retarding foreign trade with the assertion, "this theory was sound enough in the old days of barter" but not today, and so listening to republican leaders, the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill was passed.

"The President hesitated," Mr. Roosevelt told his audience, "because he must have seen the awful nature of the choice. But his courage failed. Grundyism had its way; and American industry, accelerated to a pace never before known, suddenly found the brakes locked on a slippery road."

Did Not Tell Truth

And after the crash of October, 1929, came what Roosevelt said he believed was the "real crime of the republican administration."

"They had a sea of statistics at hand but the administration did not tell the truth."

He quoted from Mr. Hoover's remarks during 1929 and 1930 to support his contention that the administration was not truthful about the depression.

Finally on Dec. 2, 1930, it was announced " we have already weathered the worst of the storm." "And then," added Roosevelt "as the depression steadily deepened, all was silence."

When facts could no longer be ignored and "an excuse must be found," he said, "Washington discovered that the depression came from abroad—an excuse which the president still maintained in his acceptance speech last week."

Contending there is no relief in continuing the Hoover administration, Mr. Roosevelt asked, "has the republican elephant, spotted with the mire through which he has wandered blindly during these last four years, suddenly by miracle over night, become a sacred white elephant of spotless purity, or has he been scrubbed and white-washed by cunning showmen in the hope they can deceive a credulous electorate for four years more."

Concentration In Industry

The candidate said: "Appraising the situation in the bitter dawn of a cold morning after, we find:

"Two-thirds of American industry concentrated in a few hun-

UNLOAD MACHINERY FOR PAVING HIGHWAY 31 IN KERENS AREA

Further evidence that actual construction work will soon start on the paving of Highway 31 through Kerens was brought out this week when several carloads of modern and up-to-date paving machinrey was sidetracked at Goodnight switch and unloaded at that point. Representatives of the Union Paving Company arrived Monday and are busy making all preliminary preparations toward getting final arrangements completed and actual work started.

Working orders were received the latter part of last week which means that work will be under way as soon as possible. Several hinderances are being worked out, the major of these being the water situation around Kerens and community. It is understood that the first set up for the receiving and unloading of materials and spplies will be at the Goodnight switch and it is presumed that work will start at the River Bridge and continued toward Kerens.

Superintendents, foremen and timekeepers are already on the ground and are making their headquarters in Kerens. Highway detour signs will probably be erected by the Highway Department the first of next week and dirt work and general preparations of the road bed will probably be started before the last of next week.—Kerens Tribune.

FORMER GOVERNOR COX OF OHIO TELLS AUDIENCE DANGER LURKS

COLUMBUS, O,. Aug. 20. (AP)—The governmental crisis arising from the depression is in many respects greater than that over the slavery question which threw the nation into civil war, former Governor James M. Cox of Dayton, presidential nominee in 1920, told the Ohio democratic platform convention today.

Cox presented his running mate of 1920, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, who is the 1932 presidential nominee of the democratic party.

"It is the solemn hour for solemn judgment," for Governor Cox said. "For the first time since our republic was founded we hear misgivings as to its life. Men whose openions have value. predict the failure of our scheme of government.

"In many respects, the present crisis is greater than when slavery brought sections to grips. If our government is not sufficient unto our needs, it will fail because it will not deserve to live. But what an indictment against our time if the instrument of our fathers ceases so to function in any emergency as to create doubt in the mass mind of the country."

Asserting that on accepted authority "Ohio will be the battleground" in the national election this year, Cox said that "we accept the challenge."

Turning to the depression and its results, Cox said that "if government had given to the farmer one half the attention which industry received, we would now see everywhere the fruits of a wise economic policy instead of the ruin from the lack of such a course."

Cox contended the United States "levied trade embargoes which produced boycotts against American goods in every land."

"The appeal of the farmer," Cox said, "came long ago with that dramatic eloquence inspired by tragic conditions. Unprivileged business complained bitterly against tariff policies and a supercriminal gangster regime, defying constituted authority everywhere, provoked bitterly expressed resentment. These warnings went unheeded.

Industrial System Fails.

"Now upon what theory is the public asked to continue the party of such neglect? It is the same old story—business. In my time and years there has not been a presidential campaign of the present party in power except upon the plea that business would be better under a republican administration. * * * Not a thought to the humanities interwoven with and underlying business nor to devices to promote the well-being of the social state."

"Our industrial system has failed," he continued. "There is no doubt about that. Sustained by the working masses, we have shown too much concern about the capital and too little about the flesh and blood employed. Is it fair to set aside accumulated profits for capital's rainy days and make no provision for labor's rainy days?"

Cox introduced Governor Roosevelt as "the gentleman delighted to carry forward the banner of liberalism."

A change in managers of the Palace and Ideal theatres in Corsicana was made effective Saturday with the transfer of Terry McCary from Tyler to Corsicana and E. B. Hands, Jr., who has been manager here for several months, to Tyler.

UNEQUAL REGULATION IN TRANSPORTATION CAUSES DISORDER AND CONFUSION

● The instability, confusion and disorder which unrestrained truck transportation has brought about is responsible in large measure for much of the distress in which all business finds itself today. Texas has moved to find a remedy and all concerned in the welfare of this state and its institutions should cooperate in the effort to restore stability and order to our transportation systems.

The Texas Railroads, in these advertisements, have endeavored to place before the people of this state some of the reasons why the existing laws, regulating motor transportation, should be upheld and enforced.

1. The railroads are necessary for the successful marketing of the enormous production of this state, which is used and consumed in every other state in the union.

Uniform, published, non-discriminatory transportation service rates are essential to the orderly conduct and welfare of business.

Unregulated truck transportation inevitably results in discriminatory charges and practices, rebating, unfair and unbusinesslike competitive methods, bringing about losses and commercial insecurity.

The wholesaler, jobber, retailer and local merchant suffer from the unfair competition of truckers and peddlers who, for the most part; are non-residents, pay no taxes and contribute nothing to the community welfare.

The farmer and agricultural producer must have at his command facilities adequate to transport crops and produce which move long distances in large volume, at low cost, by rail.

2. The railroads build and maintain their own roadways, pay heavy taxes for the support of state and municipal governments and institutions, and expend millions of dollars for payrolls, materials and supplies. Railroad workers are substantial citizens, home owners, and valued members of their communities.

3. Rail transportation is the most efficient and economical in existence for the movement of traffic in volume by land.

4. Texas highways belong to the people and are built and maintained at heavy cost. Their use for commercial purposes is a privilege, not a right. They should be kept safe for general use and not prematurely destroyed by heavy trucks.

5. The stability, security and orderly conduct of business require reasonable control and regulation of all transportation agencies.

THE COUNTY FAIRS.

A few more weeks now and the corn will be in the shock. The preserves will be put up and the frost will be gleaming on the pumpkins. The time of celebration will be at hand, and from coast to coast that glorious institution, the county fair, will blossom forth. Already there are harbingers of that happy time. Farmers searching their fields for choice products, farm women taking special precautions in the preparation of certain fair-time masterpieces of cookery, preserving, needlework and other handicraft. Fair grounds are being trimmed and put into holiday dress. Harness-race harses in remote districts are being trained for the county fair circuit. And blazing from roadside barns and telephone poles are posters advising one to be on hand for those autumn days when the farm is exalted and the county fair holds sway.

The county fair, Old World in inception, rose to heightss unsurpassed in the America of the early years of this country. It came at the season of the year when harvest was over and every one had money. The most pleasant days of the year, those golden September days when the sun glowed and the leaves fell and the fields were yet warm with summer heat, found full expression at the fair grounds. Crowds gathered to see the finest hogs and dairy cattle and horseflesh.

The sporting element found games tc occupy their time — encounters between the topmost baseball rivals of the county or, in more recent years, between the county's strongest high school football teams. And, of course, the choicest sport of all was the harness racing, with those trotting and pacing favorites of the countryside pitted against the stables that made the annual tour of the larger fair grounds. It was such racing that made such names as "Pop" Geers, and Tommy Murphy household words.

Of course, there was the usual carnival accompaniment, with its skin-games and its holiday fun. But that was a foreign element injected into the real fair time, and in the survival of the rural celebration the carnival has almost faded out.

So if one feels the pressure of this "dreadful machine age" as something too strong for everyday life, there is relief ahead. When the magic time of fairs come around, one need only follow the signs or even the parade of fair-goers. And at the fair grounds he will find there the biggest pumpkin, the finest corn, the best heads of wheat and oats and barley, the biggest hog, the fastest-growing shoat, the most tasty strawberry preserves, the cleverest bedspread design, even the finest specimen of fifth-grade handwriting. For there handicraft has its inning and its rewards. Sleek, clean-limbed horses hold their own against the most [illegible]ming, efficient tractor [illegible] world. Handmade [illegible] rugs crowd out the [illegible] product of mechanical looms. The man and not [illegible] machine is glorified at [illegible] fairs.

JUST FOLKS

PASSING GREETINGS.

As Bill and I go riding 'round the roads that line the Thumb
We like to wave a friendly hand to all who go or come;
To farmers busy in their fields, the women in the yards,
We toss a greeting blithe and gay to give them our regards.
And some there are wave back at us in much the self-same way,
And some so solemn at their tasks immovable they stay.

For miles and miles in Michigan we roam the country o'er,
And every farmhouse seems to have a mother near the door.
With hollyhocks and dahlias bright the little gardens glow
And always there are marigolds to make a pretty show,
But old men sitting in the sun and women worn and gray
Seem glad to get a friendly wave from those who pass their way

"And what's the odds," says Bill to me, "if churlish men we spy,
Who will not wave a hand to us as we go rushing by?
We cannot guess the cares they face, nor all their doubts and fears,
The eyes that seem so dull to us may still be dim with tears.
We'll wave to all along the road unto the journey's end,
That someone very lonely there may know he has a friend.

T. B. ON THE RUN

Health authorities are trying to figure out what is happening to worst that old enemy of the human race, tuberculosis. According to all previous notions, in times when economic conditions are hard, tuberculosis should renew its attacks. The present socalled depression has not had that effect.

A recent report of Dr. Andy Hall, director of the department of public health for the State of Illinois, furnished additional material for examination of this problem. Dr. Hall says statistics for the first five months of this year indicate a drop of 12 per cent in the tuberculosis mortality compared with the records for the like period of 1931. In each month the number of deaths was much lower than in the corresponding months of the previous year. The death rate from this disease has declined with unusual rapidity since 1929.

Attempts to reconcile these statistics with supposed deleterious effects of lessened income are not satisfactory. It is probable that in reality no considerable proportion of the population has suffered want to the point of malnutrition. It also is well known that the period represented by the statistics was marked by intelligent control measures tending to prevent the spread of disease in general, and by improved methods of combatting tuberculosis in particular. So that in spite of the fact that no specific medicine has been discovered to cure tuberculosis, increased knowledge concerning nursing, sanitation and hygiene, together with better methods and means for insuring a safe food supply, have provided the conditions contributing to this noteworthy public health victory.

DEVELOPMENT OF REASON.

When a scientist and educator said: "Teachers have been too successful in teaching children to read," his audience wondered if it had heard him aright. It had. In explanation of his amazing statement the speaker stated that "after learning to read, the pupil spends the rest of his school life reading to learn."

The complaint is that school children are depending too much on "book learning" and not enough on reason and experience. The word is taking the place of the thing, and reading that of doing, with the result that the student falls under the delusion that all learning is in books, and that books are the only source of education.

There is an element of truth in the educator's logic, although he has exaggerated the situation not a little. The best educated man is not necessarily the one whose head is packed with the most information. It is the one best able to employ his store of information and who has read primarily to develop his reasoning powers. A little bit of knowledge is a dangerous thing when divorced from reason.

A GREAT HUMAN FOLLY

Dedicating the ossuary at Douaumont, which holds the bones of 320,000 Frenchmen killed in the war, principally in the fighting around Verdun, President Albert Lebrun said: "This monument will remain as testimony to a great human folly."

One may see in these words the indication of a great change in French mentality; a change not sudden, but nevertheless recently revealed. Before the victory of the Left in the elections to the Chamber a few months ago, no representative of France would have dared include his own country in the "folly" of the great war; or, had he so dared, would have expected anything but execration from most of the press. For until the votes showed otherwise, France was supposed to be still under the spell of the Clemenceau and Poincare eloquence. She was the aggrieved, attacked victim, who was compelled to defend herself, and then take huge offensive steps and defensive steps of self-protection against further invasion and rapine.

Then came the quadrennial election which showed that the French people had turned a new leaf in their thinking. The parties of the Left made enormous gains. A man of the Left became prime minister. At Lausanne, to the surprise of a large part of the world, he threw over the French claim to enormous, unpayable German indemnities, and, coming home, he secured immediate indorsement of his act not only by a majority of the chamber, but by a large number of newspapers that only a few months before had refused to give up the "sacred claims of France" for reparations, and the full penalties exacted by the Treaty of Versailles.

The war was indeed a great human folly. It did not require the President of France to tell us so. But it is good to see that France's spokesman has been able to publish to the world the fact that France has emerged from that post war psychology which has kept Europe in turmoil for nearly 14 years, and has stood in the way of vital steps toward reconstruction which all the other great nations have been willing to take.

MODERN ARTISTS

Henry Ford may be surprised to learn that he is an artist. He is so described by an author-librarian. All creative genius, he says, be it exerted in commerce, chemistry, mathematics or any sphere of activity or thought, is artistic. Mr. Ford has shown the true creative spirit in manufacturing automobiles.

On this theory, anything big done in oil, coal, steel, or rubber proves in the engineer or promoter creative genius and reveals the artist. Consider the creative chemist; he projects his thoughts precisely as does the musician, or as does the architect.

Carrying out the analogy, the physician who discovers a preventive serum is an artist. No one could withhold the title from the horticulturist who produces new blooms and works miracles in plant life. Burbank was one of the greatest artists of all time.

It is a grievous error to call creative genius only that which concerns itself with music, poetry, writing, painting and sculpture. Some modern captains of industry, who may be vulgarly known only as men of great wealth, are artists because they have created something that is useful, on a large scale, to humanity.

Certainly, the man or woman who excels in industry, commerce, invention or science is more deserving of the name "artist" than the second-rate painter, literary man or musician. Many in the arts fall far short of being true artists. And many not in the arts are artists even though their works are wholly materialistic.

FOR SENATOR, CHAMP'S SON.

Writers of the political interpretations seem to agree and it may be true, that his clear-cut wetness was the principal factor in bringing about the remarkable victory of Col. Bennet C. Clark, son of the late Speaker Champ Clark, in the recent Missouri primary, for nomination to the United States senatorship there.

Yet a conjecture upon a contributory phase commands interest and respect. Living throughout his boyhood much of the time in Washington, largely educated there and then serving during his father'st term in the speakership as parliamentarian of the house, Col. Clark had a rare opportunity to equip himself for congressional service. A later military record during the Great war and for years more a demonstrated growth in presence, understanding and grasp of public questions, would complete a development appealing to anyone's common sense.

Such a story commending the possessor of a name famous in the politics of a state would commend itself, we think, to the voters of any state. Besides Col. Clark there was another wet candidate. It becomes an instance to fortify confidence in our people's poltiical choices.

A COTTON HIGHWAY.

Down in Louisiana Arnold Davis, a highway engineer, has built an experimental stretch of road in the hope that he may bring back King Cotton and prosperity for the South along with him. Mr. Davis observed that asphalt roads, newly built, crack if at certain seasons water soaks through the asphalt and gravel mixture of the hard surfacing. This, he concluded, is the result of mud deposits changing the surfacing texture.

Being a southerner and accustomed to think in terms of cotton, it occurred to Mr. Davis to experiment with a layer of cotton cloth on the surface of a course of asphalt and gravel in constructing a section of road. The cloth, in turn, was treated with asphalt and the whole is covered with a hard-wearing surface.

The engineer contends that the method will provide a waterproof and airtight covering, the cotton serving somewhat the same purpose as the fabric in a tire. Cotton reinforced roads, he thinks, will not crack and will prove much smoother and more durable. The experiment is being conducted in Baton Rouge, La., and will be watched with interest both by highway authorities and cotton farmers.

STERLING ISSUES LEGISLATIVE CALL FOR AUGUST 30TH

FOUR SUBJECTS SUBMITTED IN CALL, TAX RELIEF BEING MAIN MATTER

AUSTIN, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Governor R. S. Sterling has summoned the Texas legislature to meet in extraordinary session Tuesday, Aug. 30, at 10 a. m. to consider tax relief legislation and other matters.

Reserving the right to submit other subjects "of public imperative importance" from time to time, the governor in his proclamation specifically mentioned three subjects of proposed "relief."

The first was legislation to enable the state to assume payment of interest and principal on county and district road bonds issued for state highway construction.

Release of interest and penalties on delinquent taxes if paid before January 31, 1933, and amendments to laws governing investment of funds of life insurance companies and operation of building and loan associations also were proposed.

Submitting the subject of legislation to enable "home owners to immediately avail themselves of the benefits of the home loan bank law recently enacted by the congress of the United States, making provision for the financing and extensions of loans on resident homesteads," the governor also paved the way for consideration of changes in the so-called Robertson insurance law.

In proposing that the legislature "amend the laws of Texas governing the investment of life insurance companies," it was indicated the governor had the Robertson insurance law in mind.

Repeal of or amendments to the Robertson insurance law, which stipulated the out of state insurance companies shall invest in Texas securities or real estate seventy-five per cent of its legal reserve, has been a controversial subject before several legislatures.

Statewide Organization.

Recently there was formed at San Antonio a state-wide organization whose purpose was given to work before the legislature for changes in that law. Liberalization of the laws governing activities of out of state insurance companies was sought as opening the gates in Texas to "foreign capital," sponsors of the organization contended.

Governor Sterling dictated the proclamation in Dallas, where he had stopped while campaigning for renomintion to the governorship. He forwarded the document to Pat Dougherty, his secretary, with instructions to affix the state seal and file it with the secretary of state.

The governor announced prior to the first democratic primary last July that he intended to convene the legislature.

The runoff primary, in which he is contesting for renomination with Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, will be held August 27. The legislature will convene three days later.

New Legislators Not Qualified.

Legislators elected to the 42nd legislature in 1930 and who qualified in January, 1931, will participate in the special session. Many of those were defeated for renomination in the July democratic primary and others now are engaged in runoff contests. The newly-elected legislators will not qualify until the 43rd legislature convenes next January.

It will be the third special session of Governor Sterling's term. The first was called in July of last year to enact oil and gas conservation measures and the second in August to consider cotton acreage reduction. The special session followed a regular session that lasted more than four months.

Standing Issue.

Assumption by the state of road bond indebtedness has been a controversial issue for years. Governor Sterling last summer vetoed a bill that would have authorized diversion of one cent of the gasoline tax receipts to fund the obligations. He claimed the law was unconstitutional and that revision of the constitution would be necessary before gasoline tax receipts could be diverted.

The governor previously had fought for submission of a constitutional amendment that would have authrized the state to issue bonds, $112,000,000 to retire indebtedness of counties and road districts incurred in state highway construction, and $100,000,000 to accelerate new construction. The amendment failed of submission by one vote.

Tht total of the bonded indebtedness for state highways was estimated at between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Taxpayers' Relief.

Governor Sterling had advised county officials to delay levying taxes to pay this year's interest and sinking fund on their bonds so that these taxes would not be included in property assessments due January 31, 1933.

The proclamation stated it was "highly important * * * the taxpayers of Texas shall be relieved at the earliest possible moment of the onerous and unfair burden of taxation now resting upon them by which their homes, farms and ranches and other property are taxed for road bond issues heretofore voted by iounties and road districts for the purpose of aiding in construction of roads that are nw state highways, which burdens ought to be assumed and paid by those using the highways out of the state highway fund."

Relinquishment of penalties and interest on delinquent taxes and on ameloriating the hardships of distressed delinquent taxpayers."

Under constitutional provision a special session of the legislature may extend thirty days, it being entirely within discretion of the legislators if they shall adjourn within that time.

GANGSTER KIDNAPS DALLAS POLICEMAN IN DARING ESCAPE

MAN WANTED IN CONNECTION TEXAS BANK ROBBERIES ELUDES RAIDERS

DALLAS, Aug. 20.—(AP)—M. Ryan, motorcycle policeman, was kidnaped today when he tried to arrest a gangster wanted in connection with a series of bank and highway robberies.

Ryan encountered the gangster shortly after a raiding squad of police had apprehended two other men wanted in the same connection at an apartment house.

The gangster was seated in a sedan when Ryan rode up. Ryan stopped his motorcycle and walked to the side of the car. The gangster whipped out a pistol and ordered Ryan to raise his hands and get in the car.

A passerby saw the gangster drive off with the captive officer.

A small arsenal comprising pistols, shotguns, rifles and a quantity or ammunition was found in the apartment where the two men were arrested. Two women found there were held for investigation.

Search for the gangster who abducted Officer Ryan turned in the direction of Fort Worth. Police received a report that a car bearing a uniformed policeman had been seen speeding west toward that city a few minutes after the kidnapping.

Squads of heavily armed police were cruising about the city in scout cars and others were patroling roads over which it was thought likely that the gangster might have fled with the captured officer.

An army plane from Hensley Field took off to aid police in locating the blue sedan in which the gangster was riding with Ryan. Lieut. Russell H. Cooper, a crack observer, and Major Frank Cawthorn, pilot, were in the ship.

The two men were wanted in connection with the robbery of a bank at Winona and at least four highway holdups in the East Texas oil fields. They also were suspected of being members of the gang which has been stealing automobiles at Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco and other Texas cities and taking them to the oil fields for disposal.

Dallas police have recovered nine cars believed to have been stolen by the gang. One of the women is well known to the police and is believed to have been active in the automobile theft ring.

Red Burton, Texas ranger stationed at Gladewater, and John Gregory, state highway officer, were notified of the arrests.

They started for Dallas to aid in the investigation.

Dallas police have been working with East Texas officers, rangers and highway police in trying to apprehend the suspects. A third man, who was believed to have been workng with those arrested, was not at the apartment when the raid was staged.

This man is wanted for robbing a bank at Paradise and in other cases.

On Lookout for Kidnapper.

Members of the Corsicana police department and thes sheriff's office were notified of the kidnapping of the motorcycle officer Saturday morning and were on the lookout for the gangster and his prisoner. A description of the automobile was also received by local officials.

LIVESTOCK RAISERS WILL BE GIVEN AID TO CARRY THROUGH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Into the cattle country of 28 states the reconstruction corporation today sought to speed federal aid for those who need money to carry their livestock through the winter.

It announced "immediate" establishment of eight regional agricultural credit corporations. Their main purpose will be to make loans to livestock raisers for feeding. The feeding is about to begin in the west and middle west. The directors expressed hope that "the regional credit corporations will move promptly, energetically and sympathetically for the benefit of agriculture."

CORONADO'S CHILDREN SEEKING HIDDEN GOLD NEAR THIS CITY, LED BY HEADLESS MAN AND DOG

By CHARLTON GUNTER.

"I see a man without a head . . . so I dig here. Maybe I fin' heem here . . maybe not. But it no make no difference. . . I have no scare."

In these simple words are summed up the motives and inspiration behind treasure hunting in a big scale by three natives of the sister republic to the south, who have been toiling endlessly, day and night, for many days after an unknown fortune.

No perfectly equipped exploration party is needed, no maps to be scanned frantically at frequent intervals—in fact nothing but a simple but amazing faith in a legend of their native land and some crude tools—two picks with roughly hewn handles and two shovels, also with handmade handles.

The "treasure hunt" is being staged in Navarro county within a few miles of Corsicana on the Lyman T. Davis farm north of the city, and within a mile of the busy concrete highway to Emhouse—but the three Mexicans under the supervision of Garvino Garcia are seriously seeking a treasure—shape, size, quality unknown, at he behest of an imaginary guide—of rather a gruesome nature.

This epic of childlike faith began about two weeks ago—"dos semanas" as the swarthy laborers will inform you, and in a very startling manner.

Saw Headless Body.

Garvino Garcia, aged fifty-three, his uncle, Pete Garcia, aged sixty-five ,and Paolo Galivan, who boasts a modest total of years in the middle twenties—were engaged in grubbing out an old turnrow of mesquite and other native trees that formerly separated two sections of the Davis farm. Nearing the end of their task at sundown one afternoon, Garvino looked up suddenly to see a headless body standing near him.

But let him tell the story:

"I start to him. No I have no scare. Dead mans no hurt me. But he no speak and he go down in ground. I mark spot and little later I start dig.

"Me and my uncle and Paolo, we dig. And then in about four day about sundown, a big black dog wit' big head come up to where we dig and lay down and rest while. Then he get up and we think he goin' jump in hole where man went down but he don' —in little bit he just start off again and disappear.

Is Not Afraid.

"We keep on dig. One day about week later, I tired. Sit down to res' and somebody grab me by arm and neck and try to pull me down—I look roun' quick but see nobody, but I know it man without head. He come back too and show me where gold is. I know that. Thas' why I stay here all time. No leave. I talk to him when he come back. I no scare for he no hurt me. Wat you tink?"

And the "diggins" are not mere test holes dug to a few feet here and there, but for several feet in all directions from the spot where the "man without head went into ground," a ditch about ten feet deep has been dug laboriously with a mattock and spade, isolating an area in the shape of a parallelogram some ten feet wide by 20 feet long.

Where the man is alleged to have disappeared, a hole some 40 inches in diameter has been sunk to a depth of ten feet. And on the southwest side of the area a small brush shade has been erected to give some protection and comfort to the workers as they take a short rest from their task of the moment.

Worked at Night.

Until Thursday, the work was all done at night—for fear that someone might interrupt them from their chosen task, but then the hope became too strong and they began to dig openly, and they talked Friday of completing their task by "Monday o' Tuesday nex' week."

After enclosing the area with the trench, they began to crosscut the center section. Leaving a strip some 18 inches wide on the east side of the isolated portion, they began to sink a crescent some four feet wide, and it was practically completed Friday afternoon. Then Garvino said they would skip another 18-inch strip and cut another parallel strip to the ten foot depth.

With considerable pride for some reason or other the workmen pointed to an old scale beam resurrected from its hiding place about three feet below the surface; and there was a tooth from an old hay rake of some former day. And slightly mystified, they pointed to an old wheel from a hand-car used on railroads, of a quite different type from those used in recent years, which they found buried under the roots of a tree within a few feet of where the major development work is bing done. The site is some two miles or more from the nearest railroad.

Expects to Find Gold.

"Me think me find gold—maybe" was Garvino's quietly confident answer to the natural question. And in the course of a conversation that lasted some two hours, the inspiration for the present activities was presented in the leader's own quaint "English" flecked at intervals with a pause or a native idiom as the narrator searched his limited vocabulary for a word to send across his meaning.

It seems that while Garvino was quite small and a resident of his native Mexico, his grandfather saw a similar apparition about sundown one afternoon, and when the queer sight faded when he attempted to approach it, marked the spot where it seemed to sink into the ground.

Returning the next morning, the grandfather dug into the earth and at some depth unknown to the grandson, found a "big-size" water jar or olla filled with gold coins. The son assisted in the operations and he transmitted the story to his son, who is now "bosing" the digging in Navarro county site. The story of a half-century ago has been accepted without doubt by the grandson, and immediately came to mind when the apparition is reported to have appeared some two weeks ago. And Garvino is sure the story was true—and equally certain that the "man without a head" will return to the work again before it is completed.

Alternate in Work.

Perspiration—no, it was "pure sweat"—rolled off the dusky workmen Friday afternoon as they labored diligently under a blazing August sun, with Paolo swinging the mattock, "Uncle Pete" using the shovel, while Garvino entertained the visitors to the scene. As they alternated in their efforts, the one resting carefully draped a clean flour sack across his almost bare shoulders to prevent cooling too quickly.

They courteously consented to be photographed, although the uncle refused to leave his covert in the shade for a prominent place before the camera. And a promise of one of the prints brought quick smiles to the browned faces. Their child-like faith and dep-rooted belief, along with a philosophical resignation to whatever the future might hold for them, allowed no room for witticism or skepticisms.

Garvino Perfect Host.

In courteous asides, Garvino played the perfect host, asking about the crops of the visitors, and with a bit of pride revealing that he had been promised land to make a crop next year, and admitting that he would have made one this year but could find no land available. But always a watchful eye was kept on the progress of the work.

Garvino and his assistants bear good reputations among their American friends, who relate that they are good, steady workmen, who do their work thoroughly and conscientiusly and are scrupulously honest.

Although those who have watched the work since it started refuse to admit the possibility of there being a treasure at the appointed spot, they are hesitant to be openly skeptical, preferring to retain an open mind and just watch.

And "Coronado's children" are living another of those colorful episodes that make the histor yof the Southwest the most picturesque of any nation on the face of the globe—either old or new.

EIGHT MEN FACE CHARGES OF ARSON IN THEATRE BLAZE

Eight men were formally charged by complaints with alleged arson in Judge Sam B. Jordan's court Saturday morning as a result of investigations by the city police department into the incidents surrounding the burning of the Grand Theatre here July 17, with an estimated loss of $10000. The complaints were prepared and written by Cleo G. Miller, criminal district attorney, and were signed by O. O. Pickering, deputy sheriff and jailer.

A formal examining trial was held for M. C. Levy, one of the accused men. Bond was set at $1,500, which was made shortly before noon.

The five men still in custody were reported to be Dudley Cameron D. P. Wilson J. D. Walker, Clay Hightower, and Jack Patterson. Two others are charged but have not been arrested, Chris L. Knox, assistant criminal district attorney said.

Levy made statements to Chief of Police Will S. Knight and other city officers and to Miller, it was reported.

Levy testified at his formal hearing before Judge Jordan Saturday morning that Clay Hightower and Jack Patterson were paid $20 by him (Levy) at the intersection of West Sixth avenue and South Fifteenth street, following the burning of the theatre. He (Levy) said he hired the two boys after a previous plan had failed to materialize after local picture show operators had sent $50. to Cleburne to get a man to burn the theatre. He said the man came to Corsicana and stayed several days but did not burn the theatre. Levy testified Wilson, Walker and Cameron outlined the purported plan for the incendiary burning of the theatre to him.

STERLING OFFERS REWARD CONNECTION ILLEGAL VOTING

TEXAS GOVERNOR TAKES COGNIZANCE OF ALLEGED FRAUD STATE PRIMARY

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Governor R. S. Sterling today issued a proclamation posting rewards for the arrest and conviction of persons violating any of the penal laws governing primary elections during the August 27 democratic primary.

He offered a reward of $500 to any person "furnishing evidence to officers of this state, which evidence is subsequently responsible for the arrest and conviction of any election official including chairman and members of executive committees * * * who shall be guilty of wilfully or knowingly violating any of the penal laws of this state governing elections."

Governor Sterling posted a reward of $100 "to any person furnishing evidence to officers of this state which evidence is subsequently responsible for the arrest and conviction of any person other than election officials" violating the election laws. The last named reward was meant to apply to persons who, knowing themselves to be ineligible to vote, cast illegal ballots.

The governor said in his proclamation that "statements have been brought to my attention which indicate that many illegal votes were cast in Texas in the recent primary election."

"Many citizens and organizations which believe in the purity of the ballot have urged that every effort be made by the officials of our state to prevent recurrence of election frauds in the coming primary election on August 27," the proclamation stated.

"Grand juries, district attorneys, and others have been and are now investigating the alleged irregularities, and all right-thinking citizens of our state are deploring the apparent laxity in the conduct of the past primary election. Unless the purity of the ballot is vouchsafed to our people, our great state will suffer irreparable injury and our laws will be held for naught.

Clean Elections.

The governor said he was "determined that every power vested in the executive office shall be exerted to aid in securing to our citizens fair and clean elections, and I hereby pledge such powers in the coming primary election and thereafter."

"Every citizen should be alert in discovering and exposing any fraud in the election and it is their solemn duty as citizens and voters to aid the officers in upholding the laws governing such matters."

Claims that democratic primary ballot boxes were stuffed with illegal votes last month, when Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson and Gov. Sterling were placed in the runoff for the gubernatorial nomination, had submerged other issues in the contest between that pair of candidates.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Claims that Democratic primary ballot boxes were stuffed with illegal votes last month, when Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson led Gov. R. S. Sterling by 105,000 for the gubernatorial nomination, are threatening to sidetrack other issues in the runoff between that pair of candidates.

Complaining that persons not qualified to participate were permitted to vote in many counties, Governor Sterling today gave notice that he would pay a reward for the arrest and conviction of anyone violating the election laws in the primary next Saturday.

He said the reward would apply to conviction of election officials permitting illegal voting as well as to illegal voters.

W. O. Huggins of Houston, chairman of the Texas Democratic executive committee, announced his roup would use strenuous efforts and command all its power to insure a "clean election" in the runoff.

Huggins appointed a sub-committee of his executive body to investigate alleged irregularities and solicited the co-operation of the public generally to prevent an unfair ballot. He requested citizens to call any infractions to attention of the investigating committee.

The Democratic state chief said that a canvass of the returns of the July primary held at Fort Worth early in August, circumstances coming to the notice of the committee that "illegal votes

W. T. ELDRIDGE, PROMINENT TEXAS FINANCIER DIES

WAS BUILDER RAILROADS AND VAST SUGAR INDUSTRY AT SUGARLAND

HOUSTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—W. T. Eldridge, 70, builder of railroads and industries, including the great sugar refinery, irrigation system and group of farming projects at Sugar Land, died here early today.

Mr. Eldridge had been lingering for several days at Hermann Hospital. Friends observed that his health began to decline after the death of his son, W. T. Jr., about a year and a half ago.

Beginning his career as a runaway boy at the age of 12, with no educational preparation, Mr. Eldridge soon made a start in business at Eagle Lake. One of his first sources of income was from horse hire. Next he established a store. In time he became interested in transportation projects on a large scale.

Early in life he saw the need of rail transportation in Colorado, Wharton and Matagorda counties and was chiefly instrumental in the building of the Cane Belt railroad from Sealy to Matagorda. This line, 177 miles long, was sold in 1903 to the Santa Fe.

About the time he disposed of his railroad interests, Mr. Eldridge disposed of his other business enterprises and moved to San Antonio. He bought the City National Bank of San Antonio.

In 1907, together with the Kempner interests of Galveston, Mr. Eldridge secured control of the Cunningham Sugar Refinery and organized the Imperial Sugar Company at Sugar Land.

Mr. Eldridge was responsible for the building at Sugar Land of one of the vast plantations of Texas with an extensive drainage and irrigation system. The plantation contains 21,000 acres.

He was interested likewise in an extensive farming project in Colorado county on the Faber plantation. He was interested in irrigation and truck farming in Dimmit county on Nueces river, commonly called the winter garden section of Texas. He had business interests in Nueces and Brooks counties.

Purchased Railroads.

In 1909 he purchased the Sugar Land railroad, developed the property and in 1925 sold it to the Missouri Pacific railroad. He became a joint owner, with the Kell interests of Wichita Falls, of the San Antonio, Uvalde and Gulf railroad and built the Rio Grande City railway between San Fordyce and Rio Grande City. These properties he sold to the Missouri Pacific.

Mr. Eldridge purchased and rehabilitated the Rio Grande City railroad, running from Brownsville to Point Isabel, and later acquired the Uvalde and Gulf railroad, extending from Uvalde to Camp Wood. He took ver the Sealy Mattress Factry and consolidated it with the Sugar Land interprises. After building up the mattress business to a point where it had branch factories in many states, he sold the mattress manufacturing business.

Mr. Eldridge is survived by his widow, two daughter, Mrs. Walter F. Woodul of Houston and Mrs. R. J Bauereisen of San Antonio, and one son, Randall Eldridge of Sugar Land.

The founder of the Sugar Land enterprises had not been in active charge for more than six months. He had relinquished the management to other executives but retained an active interest in all that was occurring.

About a month ago his health so perceptibly failed that he was confined to his residence at Sugar Land. Later, on the advice of his physician, he was moved to the hospital here.

Funeral services will be held at the Eldridge residence at Sugar Land tomorrow afternoon.

The festival is scheduled for September 15, 16 and 17 and plans call for the participation of every merchant and business man in Corsicana, in an atempt to sell the people of the Corsicana trade territory on the completeness and availability of local markets.

Every merchant in the city is expected to assist in the campaign by offering some special inducement to the buying public on those three dates. Plans have been perfected for a special section of the Corsicana Daily Sun and Semi-Weekly Morning Light to be distributed over the trade area as a forerunner of the trade event.

Several other plans for augmenting the campaign were presented during recent meetings of the committee and final action will be taken on them within a few days. The campaign inaugurated Monday has as a goal the signed declaration of every Corsciana merchant to assist in the festival in every way possible.

Blooming Grove Won Over All-Stars, 3-2 Friday Afternoon

BLOOMING GROVE, Aug. 22.—(Spl.)—Blooming Grove defeated the Home League all-stars here Frfiday afternoon, 3-2, in a 10-inning tussle before a crowd estimated at 1,400 people. Pullin emerged victor in a pitching duel with Copeland of Pursley. Pullin allowed seven hits while Copeland's delivery was touched for eight safeties.

McNabb, first man up for all-stars in tenth, doubled, but Pullin stopped the threateled rally by fanning Taylor, Copeland and Hobbs, a pinch hitter.

Both hurlers were given excellent support in the pinches.

Hitting honors went to Griffin, catcher for the Blooming Grove club, who singled the four times he was at bat, driving in two runs.

The winning of the game was three singles by Griffin, Corbin and Shuler. Shuler was a pinch-hitter for Payne.

To Democrats of Navarro County

Our long-time, honored fellow-citizen, Hon. Lee Satterwhite, won a place in the second primary against one of the numerous Terrells, for Railway Commissioner of Texas.

The citizens of Freestone county are proud of our political and business relations with our strongor sister, Navarro county.

We have always cheerfully supported your distinguished candidates for congress, state senator and district judge, while we were in same district. Mr. Satterwhite is a product of Freestone county of whom we are justly proud. He is able, courageous, fair, loves his state, and would discharge the duties of Railway Commissioner creditably and to the state's advantage, and represents the masses in spirit and purpose.

We ask Navarro county to consider Satterwhite's election against Mr. C. V. Terrell, who has held office since 1886, and state offices for fifteen consecutive years.

Respectfully,

W. J. Bryant, J. T. Drumwright, Mayor Wortham, Towns Longbotham, M. C. Strange, J. J. Stubbs, A. H. Bounds, Roy Simmons, F. D. Wright, Fountain Kirby.
District Judge, and Forty Others.

FACE MASKS

Make Face Masks at Home

Face masks for cleansing, for stimulating the skin, for clearing it of eruptions, for doing away with wrinkles, are all possible to manage at home, and with very little expense. Let me give you a few suggestions for some simple face treatments of this kind.

For a general cleansing and toning up of the skin, nothing is better than oil and almond meal. You vary the amount of oil, depending on the dryness or oiliness of your skin. But the method is the same. Cleanse the face with oil first, almond oil, or if you must economize, the fine Italian olive oil, which is very nearly as good. Wipe off with an old cloth or a tissue. Hold your face cloth, wrung from hot water, over the skin for a minute to open the pores. Rub a little oil on the face if the skin is oily and quite a lot if it is dry.

Now mix about a tablespoonful of almond meal with hot water, to make a thick paste. Spread this hot, all over the face. If you have not enough to give the whole face, and under the chin, a good coating, rub on some more. Work this all over the skin with the fingers, it combines with the oil to form what the French call a "melange." Let this stay on five minutes or so, then wring a small towel from hot water and hold over the face, folding a dry towel over this to keep in the heat. When it cools, remove, dip in water and repeat. Three times will wipe off all the almond meal. Now repeat the towels, only rinse from cold water. Then rub a little ice over the skin.

Again a variation. If your skin is dry, rub a little fine almond oil on now, and wipe off, using this as a foundation cream for youpr powder. If your skin is naturally oily, you'll not need anything more.

For skin eruptions, often caused by using too many cosmetics, substitute powdered flour of sulphur for the almond meal.

Mrs. D. G.—The old formula used generations ago for tinting grey hairs was made from sage tea to which some sulphur was added, but it merely changed the stray hairs to a pale tan shade that did not help very mch. Sage tea had a tonic effect upon the hair, and the sulphur was purifying, so there was a great deal of virtue to the mixture even though it did not disguise the fact that there were grey hairs. There is a very old formula in which "tincture of cantharides" was added to increase the tonic qualities, and some people are still using it instead of the newer formulas for the hair. If you care to try this formula and send a self-addressed, stamped envelope or it I shall be glad to mail it to you.

SMITH MOVEMENT OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN IN MIDDLE WEST

CARDS SENT OUT URGING WRITING IN OF FORMER CANDIADTE'S NAME

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Times said today that cards urging voters to write in the name of lfred E. Smith on the presidential ballot in November have been [illegible]ulated in three or four middle-western states.

Cards received here, the paper said, were traced to the Smith club of Nebraska, an organisation formed before the democratic national convention.

Reports from Nebraska said that no Smith club had been active recently, though before the convention there was a "Smith or Hoover club," the members of which pledged themselves to vote for Hoover in the event that Smith was not nominated by the democrats.

In Minnesota a move to place presidential electors for Smith on the ballot was recently made by John B. Grones of Minneapolis. Grones said it was launched by a group which felt that it could not support Roosevelt.

It was pointed out here by democratic leaders that the writing in of Smith's name on the ballot would merely render the vote ineffective since the vote is not directly for the president but — an electoral college.

Former Gov. Smith was not at his office today but associates said he knew nothing of the campaign to have his name written in on presidential ballots.

Several of the cards have been sent anonymously to Smith most of them postmarked at Omaha, Neb.

Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, vice chairman of the democratic national committee, said he knew nothing of the movement and knew of no responsible club active for Smith in his state.

"Most of the friends of former Gov. Smith who were active in his behalf in 1928 are working for Gov. Roosevelt this year, and were even before the convention," he said.

Pretty Wortham Wedding United Popular Couple

WORTHAM, Aug. 19.—(Spl.)—A wedding of much importance and which had been heralded with many pre-nuptial affairs, was that of Miss Edith Weaver, popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Weaver, and G. O. Sory of Jacksonville, that was performed Sunday morning at 8:30, at the Central Presbyterian church, with the brides' pastor, the Rev. J. W. Joiner, officiating.

At this early hour many friends and relatives gathered in the large auditoriuum of the church, which under the skillful hands of Roy Stubbs, Jr., had been arranged and decorated into a charming setting for the sacred ceremonial rite. Miss Merle Moore and Mrs. John Mackey from the organ and violin, respectively, played the lovely wedding music.

An improvised altar of greens, ferns and floor baskets holding artistic displays of pink blossoms marked the position where the bride and groom met the minister and plighted their troth that made them husband and wife.

The groom, unattended, entered from the choir room, meeting his bride at the altar, who entered from the pastor's study on the arm of her father, and was given in marriage.

The bride was gowned in a lovely ceration of pearl white chiffon and lace, wearing harmonizing accessories, and who, in her new happiness, never looked more beautiful than on this, her bridal morning.

After a brief reception at the home, the happy couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans and other Southern cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Sory will make their home in Jacksonville, where Mr. Sory is in the employ of the Gulf Oil Company.

Mrs. Sory was born and reared in Wortham, is a graduate of the Wortham High school, and of Westminster College. It is from here the scenes of the bride's childhood days that hosts of friends join the friends of today in wishing all happiness, and prosperity for a long wedded life.

Following are out of town guests attending the wedding: Mr. and Mrs. G. Sory, the groom's parents, of Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. Heablee and children of Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. Hampton and children, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sory of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Weaver and daughter of Dawson; Mrs. Henry Swink of Richland; Mrs. Henry Longbotham of Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Alec Dunn of Teague, Mrs. Mollie Melton, Misses Mary Maud Weaver and Margaret Potts, and Jim Weaver of Mexia.

Corsicanan And Wife Reach Hawaii For Two-Year Stay

Messages from Smokey Roughton and wife who arrived in Hawaii, several weeks ago for a two year's stay in the U. S. army at Camp Shafter, state that upon landing in Honolulu, they were covered with sweet-scented leis, and welcomed in a way that was touching.

Mr. and Mrs. Roughton, guitarist and pianist respectively, have been presented in two radio broadcosts from Honolulu under the name of "The Two Texans" and their vocal and instrumental duos were received with enthusiasm.

Mr. and Mrs. Roughton write that the climate is ideal, the scenery of the islands is beautiful, and that the air is perfumed with flowers. Among the many interesting sights for the traveler in Hawaii is the Luau, a native feast, which the Roughtons expect to enjoy in near future. At these feasts, great quantities of poi the native food, pork and limu, or sea weed also sweet potatoes, are consumed and all of the food is eaten in the native style with the fingers to the accompainment of Hula Hula dancers and native Hawaiian music.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness shown to us during the illness and death of our aunt, Miss Moran.

STRIKING FARMERS STOPPING TRAINS IN SIOUX CITY SECTOR

LINES TIGHTENED AND NO TRUCKS OF PRODUCE MOVING INTO THAT CITY

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Striking farmers in their "war" for higher agricultural prices have begun to detain railway traffic to keep farm produce out of Sioux City, meanwhile seeking an extension of their battle lines to Omaha and Council Bluffs.

Two freight trains bound for Sioux City were stopped last night. It was the first attempt of the strikers to prevent rail shipments of farm commodities, all of their previous picketing having been concentrated on motor trucks.

At Moville, Ia., 200 farmers stopped a freight consisting of eleven cars of livestock bound for Sioux City packing houses. None of the stock was removed and, after a short delay, the train was permitted to proceed.

The other train was stopped at Jefferson, S. D., where 50 farmers put torpedoes on the tracks and waved red lanterns. The cars contained milk consigned to Sioux City. Baggagemen closed the doors of the cars and no attempt was made by the farmers to open them. The train was delayed for only five minutes.

Flushed by their success in preventing truck shipments of produce and milk into Sioux City, the strikers claimed new impetus for their movement was gained yesterday when about 1,000 farmers and their families assembled at Dunlap, Ia., and agreed to broaden their activities to take in both Omaha and Council Bluffs.

Clinton P. Savery of Logan a., organizer of the Farmers' Holiday Association for Iowa, told the Dunlap meeting that as soon as the Iowa lines had been tightened attempts would be made to organize Nebraska farmers.

It was considered possible that the farmers might extend their lines to include Des Moines in central Iowa. Leaders in Red Oak and Harlan were discussing the advisability of picketing the main trunk highways running into the state capital.

At Sioux City, where the strike movement had its inception a week ago, the farmers' lines have been drawn so tightly that no trucks have entered the city during the past few days.

Meanwhile, Mayor W. O. Hayes of Sioux City issued a statement asking a conference of governors of the states involved to consider the farm strike situatin, saying the "situation transcends any question of merely local interest."

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Omaha livestock market was threatened with blockade by Iowa's striking farmers.

Leaders of the Iowa movement, encouraged by their success in stopping milk shipments by truck into Sioux City, announced that at 2 p. m. today a picket line would be drawn across the two main highways leading into Omaha from Iowa.

Within 48 hours, they hoped, shipments of livestock and farm produce into Omaha from Iowa would be stopped.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Upwards of 400 farmers in this area, one of the richest wheat districts in the Pacific northwest, were bound by an agreement today to sell none of their wheat for 60 days unless a profit could be made. They control 5,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Of these farmers, 100 had their names on a written agreement to ask 75 cents a bushel or make no sale for 60 days. No. 1 grain was quoted at Genesee, the center of the movement, at 37 cents a bushel.

roadside station and finished the lap in 22nd place.

Handicaps are allowed each of the contestants at the start of each lap according to predetermined ratings. The two groups of fliers will converge Wednesday at Bartlesville, Oklya., for the final dash to Cleveland.

On today's lap, the Eastern group will make a noon stop at Spartanberg, S. C., and will spend the night at Atlanta, Ga. The Western group will make a noon stop at Cuson, Ariz., and will have their ever-night stop at El Paso, Texas.

YUMA, Ariz., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Desert heat was the obstacle faced today by 56 speed pilots participating in the annual trans-continental sweepstakes handicap air derby from Los Angeles to Cleveland. The pilots yesterday negotiated safely the hop here from Los Angeles through dangerous San Gorgonio Pass and today were to fly, via Tucson, to El Paso, Texas, for a night stop.

Art Carnahan of Bloomington, Ill., led the contestants on the flight into Yuma with an elapsed time of one hour and 55 minutes to gain a perfect score of 270 points.

The first ten in standings: Carnahan; Roy Hunt, Norman, Okla., 162 points; Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., 108; William E. Blakeley, Oklahoma City, 67.5; J. L. O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., 49.5; Waldo Wateramn, Santa Monica, Cal., 27; J. C. McDonnell, Cleveland, 13.5; Marshall Headle, Burbank, Cal., 10.8; Gene Redewill, Phoenix, Ariz., 8.1, and Joe Thompson, San Antonio, Texas, 5.4.

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Gene Redwell, Phoenix, Ariz., entrant in the transcontinental air derby, crashed in a suburban street of Tucson today as he neared the finish line on the lap from Yuma. He was not seriously hurt but his plane was so damaged it was unlikely he could continue in the race.

Terrells Forever?

Ten Terrells, since 1841, holding state office together 108 years shall Texans continue discounting other good citizens in favor of the Terrells? Remember Hon. Lee Satterwhite and Hon Pink Parrish, both sterling men, clean and competent, oppose the two Terrells next Saturday. Change is the demand of the day. Lop off some eternal tax eaters.

and exemptions will be given the county democratic executive committee this week by Mrs. Joe Woods, tax collector.

Election judges are urged to call for the election boxes and other supplies at the headquarters of the executive committee early this week. A number of boxes had been delivered to the precinct chairmen Monday.

The absentte ballots will be delivered to the presiding judges Thursday.

"Election judges will be very strict in the approaching election," it was announced Monday. Every voter is urged to take the poll tax or exemption to the polls Saturday.

No application had been made Monday by any candidate for the appointment of supervisors at Saturday's election.

Election Party Saturday.

The Corsicana Daily Sun and Semi-Weekly Morning Light newspapers will sponsor their regular election party Saturday. All election jodges and officials have been instructed to telephone the results of the election in their boxes to the Daily Sun, Corsicana, collect, as soon after the polls close as possible. The newspapers will compile the results of the vote in Navarro county Saturday night and returns on the state election will be brought to the Sun on a specially leased wire from the Texas Election Bureau.

The results of the county and state races will be flashed on a screen on a building directly across the street from the Sun Light building and also will be broadcast over a loud speaker arrangement.

The block in front of the Daily Sun will be roped off and chairs will be placed in the street.

Due to the short ticket in the second primary election, it is expected that the results in the county election will be secured Saturday night. The co-operation of all election judges is earnestly desired in telephoning the results from their boxes as complete returns cannot be announced and compiled until all forty-eight have been reported.

Rallies Scheduled.

Several rallies are expected to be staged by various candidates.

Maury Hughes, Dallas attorney and well-known political leader for years, is scheduled to speak at the court house Wednesday night in the interest of the candidacy of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for the gubernatorial nomination. A. P. Mays will preside at the meeting and Hoghes will be introduced by Norris W. Lovett.

John R. Curington, Navarro county Ferguson manager, said Wednesday night's meeting here would be a county-wide Ferguson rally and delegations are expected from a majority of the communities of the county.

Eugenics

been sterilized at the beginning for $150.

Thus Theodore Russell Roble, M. D., of the Essex County Mental Hygiene Clinic, pointed out an American problem today to the third International Congress of Eugenics.

There are 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 mentally deficient in the United States," he said, "and 14,000,000 mentally below average intelligence.

"The seemingly insignificant two per cent mental deficients will multiply three and one-half times while superior population goes backward in reproduction.

"The female intelligentsia marrying have only one-third as many children as other classes and thus we are figuratively sterilizing the fittest."

He suggested that if research were possible it would be found thata socil inadequacy and mental defectiveness figure in the unemployment problem and that some of the "mental defectives might have been spared the misery they are now facing if they had never been born."

Murders

that of William Maloney, owner of an alleged speakeasy in Union City, who was found shot near North Bergen. Police think that he was taken for a ride because he failed to settle his beer bills.

John Szuchs, 28, of Trenton, was shot in an alleged hi-jacking raid on a farm near Ringoes. Nicholas Molnar, farmer, was held on a charge of second degree murder when he told police he returned the fire of four men who entered his place, asked where his still was and demanded $500. Charles Froliano was shot in — lung during the battle.

An unidentified man, shot in the head, was found at Monmouth Beach. Police believe he may have been slain at sea.

The Jersey City police were reluctant to comment of Miss Higgins' case. Accompanied by her sister, Mae, and her brother, William, she went riding Saturday night. Early yesterday the car, driven vy Vincent Brady of New Brunswick stopped at a vacant lot. Mae Higgins felt ill and wanted to get out. She walked into the lot. Then she called her sister. Eelyn went to her, followed by her brother, and Frank Hanlon, 25, of Passaic. The two men assisted Mae back to the car, the police said,

Then the brother heard a sharp report "like a shot," and presently Evelyn walked to the car and got in. They had moved ahead only a few feet when she asked to be taken to a doctor. Her condition is serious.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 2-6 advance on higher Liverpool cables and reports of heavy rains along the Atlantic coast over Sunday. Oct. 7.60, Dec. 7.70, Jan. 7.83, March 7.98, May 8.08, July 8.18.

Otherwise there was little criticism of weather conditions, but offerings were light and the market showed increasing firmness after the opening. Reports that a firmer tone had developed after a somewhat irregular start in the stack market, probably encouraged buying and prices worked up to 7.81 for December and 8.02 for March, or 10 to 11 points net higher.

Houses with Liverpool connections were buyers here after the call, while ther was trad and commission house buying as well as covering and the market was within a point or two of the best at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool cables reported general buying and covering in that market on unfavorable weather reports, but said that cloth buyers were cautious with a moderate business.

The buying continued later in the morning. No particularly large blocks seemed to be wanted, but there were a good many small orders, apparently, and price worked gradually up to 7.85 for December and 8.05 for March, or about 13 to 14 points net higher and into new high ground for the movement. There was considerable realizing and some southern selling on the advance, but prices at midday were within a point or two of the best.

Futures closed steady 14-20higher.Spot quiet; middling 7.75.

New Orleans Cotton Firmer.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The cotton market experienced a firm opening today with fairly good business. Liverpool came in much better than due and first trades here showed gains of 6 points which was not in full response to the advance abroad. Soon after the opening, prices eased off 2 to 3 points on reports that the weather in the belt was more favorable but prics soon rallied again on a very firm opening of the stock market and October advanced to 7.62 and December to 7.80 or 11 to 13 points above Saturday's close. Near the end of the first hour the market was very steady and at the highs.

The market ruled very firm all morning with fairly active trading. Prices made new highs for the movement as well as for the season, October traded up to 7.70 and December to 7.87 or 19 points above Saturday's close. The October option was 257 points or $12.75 a bale above the low price reached on June 10 when October traded as low as 5.13. The advance was due partly to much higher Liverpool cables than expected and to activities and strength of stocks. Near mid-session the market was steady though queter and 2 points under the top.

Take Care of the Terrells

Saturday, only two now running, one in office 26 years, one so long history fails. Ten Terrells have been faithful state tax eaters altogether 108 years. Lop off hangers-on, put in new blood, it could not harm. Two splendid men, Parrish and Satterwhite, offer rare opportunity to change.

NAVARRO COUNTY VOTER
(political advertisement)

Roosevelt

they had been passed upon at Washington.

Representative Snell, republican leader of the house of representatives, himself a Nw Yorker, issued through the party's national committee in Washington a driving attack upon the democratic candidate. It accused him of having facts wrong in his speech, of joining unrelated incidents and of possessing a "congenital inability to think clearly." He followed this by piling up queries as to the lack of New York state action during the time Roosevelt has been governor to secure the control of security issuance and banking advocated by the candidate as a national measure.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, gave out in New York a statement to the effect that Roosevelt's address was worded in terms of childish intelligence while "the presidency is a man's job."

"Governor Roosevelt," he said, "evidently looks upon it as a combination of the nursery and coin's financial school and the nine points of salvation which he enumerate are only Neo-Bryanism."

Roosevelt Gratified At Reception Speech

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Returning yesterday to the executive mansion after delivering the first stump speech of his presidential campaign at Columbus, Ohio, Saturday, Governor Roosevelt was manifestly gratified by the sight of a great pile of commendatory telegrams recived from all sections of the country.

Some of the messages, however, were not of a flattering nature, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Further public reaction to the Columbus speech is expected during the next few days.

Both the governor and his political advisers were pleased, not cnly by the flood of telegrams, but also by the receptions accorded the democratic presidential nominee at many points in Ohio, regarded for years as a repulican stronghold in presidential elections.

Aides of the governor believe he coined a new phrase comparable with "The Forgotten Man" when, in his Columbus address, he assailed the right of powerful interests to make "industrial cannon fodder" of the lives of half this nation's population.

The major part of this week will be devoted by Mr. Roosevelt to a continuance of the hearings in the case of Mayor James J. Walker of New York, whose removal from office has been recommended by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter committee investigating the New York City administration.

Saturday the second stump speech of the national campaign will be made by the governor at Seagirt, N. J., where a meeting of Jersey democrats has been arranged by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, democratic leader, and one of the chief Al Smith boosters at the democratic national convention at Chicago.

EARLY HISTORY NAVARRO COUNTY RELATED IN BOOK

'BUCK BARRY, TEXAS RANGER', MAKES INTERESTING READING HERE

History lovers of Navarro county can read with interest "Buck Barry—Texas Ranger," and secure many new and interesting sidelights on life in this section of the state in the period from 1845-1900. This volume recently released from the Southwest Press, was edited by James K. Greer from the memoirs of Col. James Buckner Barry, one of the first sheriff's of Navarro county.

The book will also be of interest to the younger generation for it is "Wild West" and while not particularly gory, is sufficient to please the average taste. It combines a wealth of historial fact of the early days of Texas, especially of Navarro, McLennan and Bosque counties, with intelligent comment on events and conditions of the years covered by the narrative.

Arrived Texas in 1845.

The history of James Buckner Barry, with a brief hereditary background sketch, is traced in the pages of the book from his childhood in North Carolina to his death at Walnut Springs, Bosque county, a few years ago. He first arrived in Texas in 1845, coming by boat and making his first prolonged stop in Texas near Bazette crossing on the Trinity river, what is now the east boundary of Navarro county.

The subject of the narrative then engaged in forays against the Indians and Mexicans with Capt. Jack Hays' company of Texas Volunteers who were the immediate forerunners of the Texas Rangers. Wounded at Monterrey, he made his way back to North Carolina to convalesce, married, and again came to Texas to seek his fortune,, this time overland.

He settled in Navarro county, which had recently been carved ou of Robertson county, and a few years later was elected sheriff of the county. Many interesting experiences of his work as a peace officer are given. Later he acquired land in the Brazos bottoms and also in Bosque county and eventually decided to move to his later property, where he resided for the last years of his life.

Local Families Mentioned.

Page after page of the volume is covered with interesting pictures of pioneer life in Navarro county between 1845 and 1855. Among the early leaders mentioned in the narrative are P. M. Monnell, P. H. Carethers, P. D. Hicks, D. R. Mickie, J. H. Martin, D. B. Hartzell, W. B. McCabe, A. F. Bartlett, E. H. Root of Corsicana, R. C. Donaldson, G. M. Hogan, B. Handley, J. M. Riggs, William Croft, H. M. Allen, James L. Lee, William E. Hicks, all of Taos, and others.

Hunting, fishing, politics, social life, Indian forays, stock raising, farming, legislative activities, and military service are all mixed in liberal portions in one of the most interesting and instructive volumes on Texas history presented in many years.

At least the first half of the book would be invaluable to high school students in this county as a striking picture of the early life of citizens in Corsicana and Navarro county. The white population of Navarro county in 1856 was listed at some 5200.

As a literary work, the book is interesting and refreshing and as a history of Central Texas it is highly instructive.

Former Resident Of Bazette Passes Away

In memory of William Robert Boyd.

On August 16, after several months illness Mr. Boyd passed on to the land where all is peace and suffering is no more. Mr. Boyd was 61 years old, and for fifteen years he lived with his family at Bazette, Texas. He has many friends there as same as a host of friends around Sudan, Texas to mourn his death. He was a man of character. His good deeds are so outstanding that his family and many friends will carry his memory forever.

Mr. Boyd moved to Sodan, Texas six years ago, where he has since resided. He leaves to mourn his death his wife, Mrs. Rosana Boyd one son, William A. Boyd; three daughters, Mrs. J. R. Bills, Mrs. J. S. Lancaster and Mrs. R. E. Mabry and several grandchildren and hosts of friends.

LEE SATTERWHITE DLEIVERED ADDRESS HERE ON SATURDAY

CANDIDATE FOR RAIL COMMISSION PLACE OUTLINES HIS PLATFORM

Lee Satterwhite, Odessa, former resident of Navarro county, candidate in the run-off democratic primary election Saturday, Aug. 27 for the nomination as state railroad commissioner, spoke in the interest of his race in the county courtroom at the court house Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A. A. Allison of Corsicana, introduced the speaker.

Satterwhite charged that his opponent, C. V. Terrell, who is seeking re-election, was extravagant in the expenditure of state funds, "was dilly-dallying in office" and was using state employees and state-owned and operated cars in the furtherance of his (Terrell's) efforts to be re-elected.

Early in his address, Satterwhite reminded his hearers that the Terrells started holding office in 1841 in Texas. He told of his (Satterwhite's) service in the Texas legislature and also of his early life in Navarro and Limestone counties. The family came to Richland in 1881 from Arkansas. He said the first soda water he ever drank was secured in Corsicana and the first automobile he ever saw was in Corsicana.

Mr. Satterwhite said his candidacy was with the people of Texas and he voiced the opinion he would be elected Aug. 27.

Challenged Terrell.

He said he had challenged Terrell to ansker his charges but he failed to meet him. He said state owned cars, driven by state employees, had been used to further Terrell's campaign and the money belonged to the state of Texas and the people paid the bill. He reviewed the offer he made that he would withdraw if the charge could not be proven on Terrell.

The speaker charged the present commissioner had appointed a large number of employees in the department for political reasons since the present campaign started. He said he had not intimated to any person or interest any favors or offers for support and would go into office, if elected, without any strings tied to him.

Will "Deliver the Goods."

"If I am elected and fail to 'deliver the goods" I should be defeated by the people if I seek reelection," Mr. Satterwhite stated. He promised that he would help reorganize the railroad commission into a more efficient department, and that the first consideration he would make before appointing a man to a job was whether he was qualified, and not for political reasons.

He said he had been accused of being on oil company candidate but declared some high oil officials had told him they were under obligations to vote for Terrell. He said his opposition was saying to those opposed to railroads that he was for the railroads and to those opposing trucks, he was for the truck transportation and buses. He promised a fair economical and efficient administration, without any favors or privileges to any person or class.

Attacked Terrell.

Satterwhite also attacked Terrell on his alleged "dilly-dallying" on the questions in a number of cases before the commission on which all arguments and testimony had been closed months ago. He said it would not take him over a year to make up his mind on some case after it was finished. He said no ruling had been made on the hearing relative to rates at Amarillo more than a year ago.

"Good business tactics are needed in the railroad commission," he said, "and much money could be saved the taxpayers thereby," he continued.

In concluding his address, Mr. Satterwhite said he favored the railroads and trucks and bus lines being treated fair and was against anything that would cripple the systems or affect the country, and was favoring the conservation of the natural resources of the state in fairness to everyone concerned.

"Back To The Farm"

It has long been recognized that the only permanent solution for a great many of our present economic difficulties is to reverse the trend of population which has been flowing from FARM to CITY —away from the City and back to the farm.
That such a reversal of trend has set in is indicated by

Small Acreage Demand

The desire of the average migrator is to feed himself and family rather than to produce for the market, so if you care to sell your small farm, or a part of a large farm in small tracts, consult me at once. I find a market and demand for such, and if on highway, distance won't make a great deal of difference, as it comes cheaper. No doubt loan companies would consent for you to sell a part, if applied on loan.

I Have a Buyer

With the cash to pay for a small farm, if close to school and good land and improvements, and priced for CASH. Let me know at once what you have to offer anywhere in the county. Nothing to be gained by waiting, so write me, if you can't come in by the 20th, or we might lose a good opportunity to get the CASH.

The New Home Loan Banks are expected to be set up and functioning soon, which should help financing homes, and now is the time to tell people in the right way what you have to sell, and I'll advertise it without cost to you and no charge if sale is not effected.

Come and talk it over! My office with the Navarro County Abstract Co., 507 State National Bank Building.

THE CAPITOL WHIRLIGIG; DEATH USUALLY ENDS WORK SUPREME COURT ATTACHES

By R. W. BARRY

AUSTIN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Attaches of the Texas Supreme Court are seldom shifted. The longer a man fills an appointment the more valuable are his services to the august body. He knows the intricacies of caring for thousands of court records.

But death ends all service, high and low. A. F. Wilkerson, official reporter for the supreme court, died recently after serving for thirty-five years in his place.

L. K. Smoot, court librarian, for thirty-seven years, was put in Wilkerson's place. John H. Johnson, long time law clerk for the court was made librarian.

Appropriate monuments over graves of seventeen pioneer Texans whose deeds for their republic and state have lived through the years, have been erected as follows: George Campbell, Galveston; Lorenzo De Zavala, Harris County; William J. E. Heard, Chappel Hill; Henry S. Brown, West Columbia; Captain William M. Logan, West Columbia; John A. Wharton, Houston; W. B. Ochiltree, Jefferson; Robert M. Coleman, Freeport; George W. Hockley, Corpus Christi; David Thomas, Harris county; Henry W. Karnes, San Antonio; and David Spangler, Kaufman; Randal Jones, John W. Bunton, Josiah Wilbarger, Joel W. Robinson and Thomas William Ward, all buried in the Texas State Cemetery at Austin.

Here is some research work for students of Texas history. Why were they entitled to the commonwealth's favor?

Governor Sterling has announced his proclamation convening the legislature in extraordinary session to consider measures to relieve counties of their bonded indebtedness,would be so carefully worded that only subjects he opens up could be considered. He hopes to have the lawmakers enact his recommendations and adpourn within a few days.

It is recalled that in spite of the constitutional provision only matters submitted by a governor in his proclamation can be considered by a special session, in the past legislators have ignored that restraint and proposed bills on matters not included in the call or in special messages. Whether consideration of matters claimed to be outside the call, and not sure the subjects presented were not technically within the border line, presiding officers have not upheld points of order thereon.

There always are a number of so-called "local" matters needing attention. Legislators beseech the governor to submit these and when he does he sometimes paves the way for consideration of a variety of legislation touching the subject matter involved in "local bills."

Also ever present is the likelihood that the legisators will find something that needs "investigating."

Left Sunday For Eastern Markets

Sydney Marks, manager and buyer for Marks Bros. department store here, left Sunday for Eastern markets, whree he will be for some time. Mr. Marks was joined in Sherman by his brother, Alex Marks, manager and buyer for the Sherman store of Marks Bros., and the two will lay in the fall and winter stocks for these two big stores.

Mr. Marks was very optimistic over the coming fall and winter business due to the recent advance in cotton prices and the fact that farmers of this area have grown their crop at a minimum cost and have plenty feed and food stuffs as well as cattle, hogs, chickens and turkeys on their farms at present. He therefore expects to lay in a large stock of the latest in clothing and merchandise of all kinds.
